SPAIN AND REPUBLICANISM.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

FROM LONDON.

WHEREABOUTS OF GERMAN ARMIES.

LONDON, September 15.—Last night the Prussian right was occupying Carlepont, Tracy and Compeigne; the centre at Crecy and Meaux; the left is advancing by Aube.

A portion of the troops entered Nogent, Provins and Villiers.

Soissons is again summoned to surrender, but refuses.

ANXIETY FOR NEWS.

There is intense eagerness to hear from Paris and Rome. The news from the latter city is scarcely less interesting to Englishmen than that from Paris.

The blockade of the Elbe has been raised and vessels are now passing freely.

Steamers from England to France and Germany will resume service immediately.

A mail from Paris is hoped for to-day.

COMMUNICATION DESTROYED.

Communication between Paris and Lyons has been destroyed, the Prussians having cut the wires and the railroad at Montereau, sixteen miles southeast of Melun.

A sharp skirmish occurred there between German Uhlans and Franc-Tireurs. The former had been beaten off. Firing was heard at Paris yesterday from the direction of Melun.

Railway service between Paris and Lyons is stopped. All bridges which can be reached will be destroyed to-night.

ITALIAN UNITY.

Italian unity seems to be nearly accomplished. The sympathies of the people are almost entirely with Italy.

EMPRESS EUGENIE.

The Empress Eugenie, accompanied by the Prince Imperial, has left Hastings and gone to Torquay, a favorite watering place in the county of Devon.

PEACE PROSPECTS.

The Times this morning is more sanguine of the prospects of peace through the mediation of the neutrals.

THE IMPERIAL PRISONER.

A dispatch from Cassel of the 13th says the Emperor spends his mornings with some of his officers walking over the lawns or making long excursions. His tether extends over several miles in all directions. His guard consists of one officer, two subalterns, one trumpeter and thirty-one men.

THE IMPERIAL EXILES.

The Empress Eugenie and Prince Imperial make constant excursions around Hastings. Carriages or horses are never employed.

FASHION JOURNALS SUSPENDED.

The Paris fashion journals have suspended publication. Mourning is generally worn in Paris and Berlin.

METZ BOMBARDED—REFUSES TO SURRENDER.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Metz was bombarded all last night. The reply was sullen and at intervals. A summons to surrender was again refused.

FRENCH WAR VESSELS.

More French war steamers have been observed in the channel, passing eastward.

THIERS' MISSION.

The Pall Mall Gazette concurs in the general opinion that Thiers is without official character.

PRUSSIANS COMING [illegible] STRONG.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—A special dispatch dated St. Denis, yesterday, says: The Prussians are approaching Paris in thousands. Accurate calculations place the number of the advancing Prussian forces at [illegible]. There is great agitation here and in the neighborhood of Paris.

THIERS RECEIVES NEW INSTRUCTIONS.

A dispatch of to-day gives the report that Thiers has received further instructions to treat for peace and hopes are entertained for a successful result.

SPANISH MINISTER RECALLED.

A Madrid dispatch of yesterday announces that the Council of Ministers decided to recall Olozaga from Paris for having exceeded his instructions.

[Special to N. Y. Times.]

PRUSSIA DICTATES TERMS FOR ITALIAN OCCUPATION OF ROME—COMMUNICATION WITH PARIS—INDIGNATION AT NAPOLEON—ATROCITIES BY PRUSSIANS.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The announcement that Prussia dictated the terms on which Italy enters Rome creates dismay. It is asked, "whose turn comes next?"

Mail communication with Paris is stopped, but the telegraphs are still working. The telegraph lines run under ground fifteen leagues from the city.

The occupation of Rome creates even more interest here than the situation of Paris. The Protestant sentiment in England is jubilant.

The statement of the Frankfort correspondent of the London Telegraph that Napoleon complains bitterly of his Generals, and declares Paris unable to prevent the entrance of the Prussians, excites great indignation among the friends of France. It is said Napoleon paralyzed the action of his Generals and should be the last to proclaim the weakness of the defenses of the Capital.

The report of the atrocities by the Prussians at Bazilles is confirmed. A letter has been received from Duc de Fritz James, who was an eye witness, in which he says the Prussians punished inhabitants for defending their village by setting the place on fire. Most of the National Guards were killed. The people sought refuge in the cellars, and all the men, women and children were burned alive, the Bavarians driving back into the flames or shooting all those who tried to escape.

MAZZINI AND THE ROMAN QUESTION.

I have seen friends of Mazzini who laugh at the statement that he will renounce his republican sentiments as soon as Rome is the Italian capital, and say that is one reason more for seeking to establish a Republic in Italy.

GREAT DEMOCRATIC DEMONSTRATION IN LONDON—MINISTER WASHBURNE DISGUSTED.

LONDON, September 15.—The Democratic demonstration on Monday next will be the most formidable ever held at London. The programme is full of grand processions, banners, &c. Hackney, Clerkenwell, Islington and all sections will be represented. Englishmen will march in a body to join the Italian and French Republicans at Trafalgar square and all proceed to the official residence of Gladstone and demand the recognition of the Republic.

Minister Washburne is disgusted with Secretary Fish. He told Jules Favre he had protested personally against useless measures and disapproved of the cruel coldness of the American government in refusing to stop the vandals.

[Cable Special to N. Y. Herald.]

THE PRUSSIAN ADVANCE—WOMEN AND CHILDREN LEAVE STRASBURG—PEACE EFFORTS BY ENGLAND.

LONDON, September 15.—The Prussian scouts had withdrawn from Nogent-sur-Seine yesterday before the people, but were reinforced four kilometers off and expected to return.

Sixty thousand women and children left Strasburg on the 11th.

The Gaulois affirms that the British government has sent another letter to the King of Prussia, demanding peace and asking upon what conditions Prussia would sign and where they will have peace concluded. No answer was received to this message, but the King asks what guarantee the provisional government can offer, and whether the French people of the regular government to succeed the present would ratify a treaty of intervention.

THE SITUATION AT METZ.

There has been no fighting at Metz since the 2d, except two hours of bombardment on the 13th. German officers say the French reply is weak. The French are anxious to approach the Prussians in a friendly manner to get victuals and news. It is reported from a French source that the garrison must soon starve. Great destitution exists among the peasantry. Not a grain is left. Even the German wounded have but the poorest black bread in the ravaged districts. Help for the starving villagers will be needed soon. An official appeal is being prepared for publication in England and America.

THE PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The Electuer Libre of Paris says negotiations, with the object of obtaining peace, have been going on between Jules Favre and Minister Washburne at Paris and Minister Bancroft at Berlin, but they have failed. The King of Prussia rejects American mediation and Bancroft says he can only remain a spectator of the conflict. Washburne, on communicating Bancroft's dispatch to the Minister of Foreign Affairs, added that he could only record his protest against this impious war.

FROM FRANCE.

FROM PARIS YESTERDAY.

PARIS, September 15.—Prussian dragoons have appeared at Nagent-sur-Marne, Colinas, Creespigny, Volges, Nonteuil, Bessy, and Lindan, small towns to the East, North East and South East of Paris.

General Trochu, in an order of the day, says: Seventy thousand men on the ramparts may by persevering effort save the city. The city is unapproachable, if its defenders are properly armed.

The Councellors of State have temporarily suspended their authority.

All foreign representatives are still in Paris. The Prussians are still swarming around Nancy.

The Gaulois has reason to predict happy results from the peace negotiations now pending.

GARIBALDI WILL COMMAND A LEGION.

MARSEILLES, September 15.—It is said that Garibaldi shortly leaves for Lyons to take command of an Italian legion to fight against the Germans.

FROM STRASBURG—THIRD PARALLEL COMPLETED—FRENCH RIFLEMEN REPULSED.

MUNDELLHEIM, near Strasburg, Sept. 15.—The besiegers completed the third parallel before Strasburg on Wednesday, and for the past forty-eight hours a battery has maintained a constant fire with telling effect.

The Republic has been proclaimed in Strasburg.

A detachment of Gen. Keller's command dispersed a force of French riflemen near Colmar on Wednesday.

[Special to N. Y. Herald.]

PRUSSIANS AT SEDAN PREPARE FOR SIEGE BY BAZAINE, ESCAPED FROM METZ.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The following special dispatch has been received here:

"Bouillon, Belgium, Sept. 15, 4 P. M.—Sedan has been placed in a state of siege, the Mayor arrested and the population expelled. The Prussians apprehend the approach of Bazaine's army, reported to have escaped from Metz, and even said to have reached Carignan."

PROBABLE RESTORATION OF THE ORLEANS FAMILY.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—In diplomatic circles the firm belief prevails that the Orleans family will be restored to the throne of France. The arrival in Europe of Compt D'Eu, General-in-Chief of the Brazilian armies, is certainly regarded as significant. Thiers had a long interview with the members of the Orleans family here. It is said he delivered Duke D'Aumale an important private letter from Gen. Trochu.

FRENCH TROOPS ON THE RHINE.

PARIS, September 15.—The French troops which recently crossed the Rhine into Baden territory will probably remain and operate on German soil. Reinforcements have gone to them.

THE DEFENSE OF PARIS—TROCHU FEELS ASSURED.

Gen. Trochu, in an order of the day to the Gardes Nationale, says the result in his view is very gratifying. He feels assured the defense of the city will be admirably sustained. Paris is ready to sacrifice all in order to give time to France to organize for an irresistible defense.

A FALSE ALARM.

Last night the Parisians were awakened by a tremendous cannonading all along the ramparts. It was supposed an attack was made and there was some excitement, which was allayed when the announcement was made that the gunners were only practising.

The shops are mostly closed and masters and employes alike are drilling.

The workmen and National Guard made another demonstration of regard to Minister Washburne and the United States Government.

FIRING AT A BALLOON.

A Prussian was discovered to-day in a secluded place firing with a rifle at one of the balloons used by the military authorities. He was promptly arrested.

A great number of Franc Tireurs are camped at Montmartre. Gustave Flourens, Faville and Chateaubriand are in command of battalions.

At Pau friendly demonstrations were made by the Garde Mobile and people in front of American Consulate.

The Prussians to-day camped at Croix au Bois, Gastons, Giois and Fontaine, near the city.

At Nogent-sur-Seine the Uhlans appeared, but retreated when it became evident the people meant to give them battle.

SIEGE GUNS SWAMPED.

It is reported many large siege guns of the Prussians are deeply imbedded in the mud of Canal de la Marne au Rhine. The Germans attempted to transport their guns by this canal and the French suddenly let the water out of it. It is said this will delay the siege considerably.

DEFENSES AT LYONS.

The forts at Lyons are completed and many troops are reaching there daily. The guns are all in position.

VIGOROUS PREPARATION EVERYWHERE.

Advices from all parts of France say large sums of money are being subscribed for National defense. Large forces are being raised and equipped in all departments.

A party of American volunteers passed through Tours to-day, coming to Paris. Conscripts of the regular army are drilling here daily.

[Cable Special to N. Y. Sun.]

AMERICAN MEDIATION—GEN. CLUSERET.

PARIS, September 15.—The news of the offer of American mediation was received with great gratitude, but Gen. Cluseret advised the people last night at Belleville, to refuse mediation and fight. He said if the French Republic conquers alone the freedom of the soil, it will not only be the consolidation forever of republican institutions to France, but all over the world. Death or victory! There must be no other issue! Even among the Bourgeoisie the same feeling prevails, and strange to say the only weak elements are the officers coming in from McMahon's army, who say to the people "you cannot succeed where we failed!" Some of the officers of the Garde Mobile, wealthy, are in the same spirit, but the real people are unanimously in the highest spirits. They will certainly fight, and ten times better than the army.

The amount of material and men accumulated in Paris is frightful. Certainly half a million men are now under arms in Paris. Gen. Cluseret has been unanimously elected by twenty arrondissements of Paris, with Flourens and Shullier, as the Central Committee of War.

PART OF BAZAINE'S ARMY CUTS ITS WAY FROM METZ.

BOUILLON, September 15, 10:30 P. M.—A part of Bazaine's army cut its way through the Prussians, and is now marching on Paris. Canrobert is in command.

PRUSSIANS NEARING IN IMMENSE FORCE—THE CITY WILL BE ISOLATED TO-MORROW.

PARIS, September 15.—The Prussians are advancing in immense force. To-morrow the capital will be completely isolated. All the railways have been cut with the exception of the line running west from the forest of Montmorency. The forest of Bondy is now burning. Other forests will be destroyed to-morrow. Gas connections will not be cut for a few days.

There are full supplies of water and food.

The gates of Paris will be closed to-morrow.

There are now over six million pounds of gunpowder in Paris.

Seventeen bridges over the Seine have been destroyed.

No French fortress has yet been taken.

All classes are resolved to fight to the death.

FROM PRUSSIA.

WHY IT WAS NOT ACCEPTED.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—The Provisional Government at Paris would have been accepted by the Prussian Government if the exactions proposed by Prussia had been assented to. These embraced the cession of Alsace and Lorraine and the dismantling of the French fortifications on the German frontier. The Provisional Government refused to listen to any proposition for the surrender of French territory. It is semi-officially announced that the Government of Germany will not negotiate with a government empowered only by the democracy of the streets of Paris.

METZ FURIOUSLY ATTACKED.

A furious bombardment opened on Metz last evening, being in retaliation for the treachery at Laon. The effects are not ascertained, but must have been terrible.

THE ADVANCE OF THE ARMIES.

Advices from the Prussian forces around Paris are encouraging. Dispatches from Melun represent the Crown Prince as steadily advancing.

The Prussians crossed the line north of Breisach and occupied Colmar.

The Bavarian and Baden troops are preparing to cross at Newburg. They have pontoons and a large fleet of boats.

THE BLOCKADE RAISED.

HAMBURG, September 15.—The French fleet which has been blockading the North German coast has sailed southward. The blockade of the Elbe, Oder, and other rivers, has ceased. Vessels are entering ports on these rivers daily unmolested.

Other Cable Dispatches.

ITALY.

THE ADVANCE ON ROME.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—A dispatch received from Florence, dated the 5th, announces the Papal garrison of Montal to have been captured.

Lieut. Gen. Angelottis Dension should now be before, if not in Rome.

Civita Vecchia declared for Italian unity.

On the approach of the Italian troops at Bracciano the inhabitants came out and displayed Italian colors.

The Florence Opinion denies that there have been any diplomatic difficulties in the way of the occupation of Rome.

THE KING EXPLAINS TO THE POPE—THE REPUBLIC FATAL TO PAPACY.

The Pope has received a letter from King Victor Emmanuel, in which the latter explains the course he has lately taken. Any delay on his part, he says, would have occasioned the proclamation of the Republic in every Italian city and his army would not have fought the Republic, which has been so fatal to Papacy. As it is, Republicanism is so rampant that it may prove irrepressible.

ENGLAND.

NIAGARA FALLS ECLIPSED.

LONDON, September 15.—Advices have been received here describing a cataract recently discovered in British Guinea, in South Africa, which dwarfs Niagara. There are two falls, one of seven hundred and seventy feet and another of fifty. The volume of water passing over the falls is seventy-eight feet deep and one hundred yards wide during the dry season. The colonial government is arranging facilities for visitors.

LONDON, September 15.—It is said the British government has suspended all its contracts for building turret ships.

The steamship Kronpring, built for the Bremen line, was successfully launched at Greenoch.

Disraeli attended the harvest festival at Hugenden to-day and made a speech, but did not allude to political affairs.

The Vienna press says the Empress escaped from Paris through the exertions of Prince Metternich.

SPAIN.

THE GOVERNMENT AND REPUBLICANISM.

MADRID, September 15.—The Government is evidently alarmed by the manifestations of the republican spirit of the country recently evinced by the strong expressions of sympathy over the organization of the French Republic. It is understood that the Government is silently preparing to meet and checkmate any designs upon the part of the Republican leaders here. General Prim has been accumulating troops around the city, and has also secured great stores and munitions for their supply. Prim is evidently uneasy, and is using every exertion to hasten the election of a monarch.

It is announced that Senor Olozaga has been recalled from the mission to Paris, for his prompt action in recognizing the Republic in France.

The Government has almost discarded every vestige of Republicanism.

AUSTRIA.

PRAGUE, Sept. 15.—The address of the Emperor of Austria was carried in the Chamber by a considerable majority. The Tschesks voted in favor and the Germans quitted the hall before the vote was finished. The Chamber then adjourned sine die.

VIENNA, September 15.—The session of the Chamber of Deputies was opened to-day by the senior member, Herr Parioide, who in a brief address lamented the absence of the Deputies from Bohemia. The formal opening of the Reichsrath takes place on Friday.

SWITZERLAND.

ELEVEN TOURISTS SWALLOWED UP BY AN AVALANCHE.

GENEVA, September 15.—A telegram from Chamouni, states that a party of tourists, numbering eleven persons, while undertaking the perilous feat of ascending Mont Blanc, were swallowed up by an avalanche, none escaping. Two of the adventurers lost were Americans, named Bean and Kendall.

BELGIUM.

THE FRENCH ENVOY.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 15.—Noon—The mission of Tachard is positively confined to conducting the French legation until Berthemy can arrive, and to thanking the Belgian government for its kindness to French wounded and prisoners.

CUBA.

TELEGRAPH CABLE—CHOLERA.

HAVANA, September 15.—The telegraph cable has been successfully laid between Cuba and Jamaica.

The International Boat Race in Canada—The Tyne Crew Wins.

[By Telegraph to Pittsburgh Gazette.]

MONTREAL, September 15—The International boat race took place this afternoon. The weather was fine with a light breeze. The two crews started at sixteen minutes past five, at the firing of a gun, amid tremendous cheering. The Tyne crew rowed naked to the waist, the St. Johns wore fancy shirts. Both crews dipped oars simultaneously. After a few sweeping strokes the Tyne took the lead. At one hundred yards the Tyne seemed to increase their lead, rowing well within themselves with magnificent stroke. At a quarter of a mile the St. Johns drew up a little, but the Tyne put on a tremendous spurt. The boat jumped out of the water at every stroke. At half a mile the Tyne crew were a length ahead and gradually creeping forward and worked like machines. The St. Johns crew seemed to be rowing a waiting race. On turning the buoy the Tyne led by three lengths and on the home stretch rowed at an unparalleled pace, with the precision of automation, winning the race by six clear lengths. Time 31 minutes and 10 seconds. The winners were received with the wildest enthusiasm. The people seemed mad with excitement.

The Interment of Admiral Farragut's Remains, with Imposing Demonstrations.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, September 15.—Mayor Hall today sent the Board of Aldermen a communication recommending that the United States Government be requested to detail a vessel of war to bring Admiral Farragut's remains from Portsmouth, N. H., to this city and on the omission or inability to do so, a steamer with a guard of honor be dispatched at the city's expense to Portsmouth, and on the arrival here the remains receive a public and imposing funeral, in which all the military, naval, civil and all other organizations will be invited to join. The Mayor also recommends that the remains be interred at West Point, beside General Scott's, or in St. Paul's church yard, Broadway, or in one of the public cemeteries adjacent the city, and a monument be erected at the public square. A letter from Mrs. Farragut, assenting to the suggestion of the Mayor, accompanied the communication, and the Aldermen appointed a committee to perfect arrangements.

Live Stock.

BUFFALO, Sept. 15.—The cattle market today was quite active, with sales at prices quoted yesterday; receipts liberal, say 540 cars against 470 last week. The falling off in prices noted yesterday was a feature of to-day; sales of Ohio steers, 280 head, at $8.12½@8.41; 340 head Kentucky at $7.85@8.50; 16 Indians at $6@6.20; 28 Michigan light weights and 6137 Canada at $5.25@6.25, and a number of retail sales. Sheep active at a decline of ¼c for Canada; western dull, although no falling in prices; Canada sheep 5½@6½c; Lambs 6½@7c; Michigan sell at $4@4.80 per cwt. Hogs unquotable and trade confined to city butchers' selected stock.

Hog market without decided change, prices quoted at 12½@13½c; receipts 4097 head. Sheep in fair demand with a good supply in the market, but mostly inferior; prices quoted at 4@4¼c for extra, 4½@5¼c for stock sheep; receipts 4886 head.

New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, September 15.—Cotton active at full prices; middlings 17¾@18c; sales 1800, net receipts 483 and stock 16,282 bales. Flour unchanged. Corn lower, at 80c for mixed and 85@86c for white. Chicago Episcopal Convention.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CHICAGO, September 15.—At the evening session last night of the Episcopal Diocesan Convention, the following amendment to the canons was proposed:

"No clergyman shall resort to a civil court or tribunal for the purpose of arresting, impeding or avoiding any ecclesiastical proceedings against him. The penalty for any violation of this article shall be suspension ipso facto from the functions of the Ministry."

Silence followed the reading of this amendment to the canons, and not until the Bishop arose to put the question did any member indicate a wish to discuss it. Then Dr. Power, of St. Johns church, arose and said he could not see how it accorded with the genius of the church, or of the institutions of the country. He thought it was fraught with injustice. The amendment was opposed by the Rev. Mr. Sullivan, of Trinity, Rev. C. S. Abbott, Mr. Hill, Dr. Ryland, of St. James, and others, and defended by Judge Otis, Rev. Williams and others.

In answer to an inquiry whether or not some other penalty could not be attached other than dismissal, Bishop Whitehouse said there could not, and then entered into a lengthy statement of his views bearing on the proposed amendment. He claimed that the welfare of the Church absolutely demanded this measure. The course adopted by clergymen in appealing from ecclesiastical to civil courts tended to destroy the Church in its spiritual relations. It bred corruption of faith and could not be upheld. The law of the Church was fixed and no deviation could be tolerated.

A division of the question was then called for and that part was adopted by a considerable majority which expresses disapproval of appeal to civil courts. A vote on the remainder of the resolution was then called for by orders. The ministerial vote was for adoption, 27 against 7; the lay vote was a tie, and the Bishop declared the amendment lost on account of the nonconcurrence of orders.

Colorado Agricultural Exhibition.

By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

DENVER, Sept. 15.—The President of the K. P. R. R. telegraphs that not less than two hundred excursionists will be here to attend the fair of the Colorado Agricultural Society, September 27th. The most extensive preparations are being made to exhibit a fine collection of gold, silver, lead, copper and iron ores and coal, salt and other products of the territory, including agricultural, and after the fair the finest specimens in each department will be shipped to St. Louis and exhibited at the fair of the Agricultural and Mechanical Association to be opened in St. Louis Oct. 3d, and thence to the fair of the Maryland Agricultural Club, to be opened at Baltimore Oct. 25th. Among the interesting features of the exhibition at Denver will be a sham fight and scalp dance by one hundred and fifty wild Ute Indians, who will be brought from beyond the mountains for this purpose. The railroad rates from Chicago and St. Louis will be reduced about one-half and a great gathering from the east is expected.

Erie M. E. Conference.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

THE CAMPAIGN.

First Meeting of the Reformers—The Attendance—The Speakers—How it Terminated.

A meeting, called by the self styled "Reformers," was held at the Third ward square in the Allegheny Diamond last evening. The attendance was not as large as was anticipated, but very fair for a meeting of that party, had those in attendance all trained under the Kirk-Carnahan rule. The "crowd," as it was termed by one of the speakers, numbered fully two hundred, not one more and certainly not fifty less.

A commodious stand had been erected on the Diamond, but no arrangements had been made for "ye reporters," and they were compelled to make arrangements for themselves. A band had been employed, and about half-past seven o'clock it commenced to "blow up" a crowd, and, after great exertion, it succeeded in raising not less than one hundred and fifty.

The meeting was called to order on motion of Mr. John T. Shane, on whose motion Mr. James Rynd was chosen chairman.

On motion of Mr. James Miller a number of Vice Presidents and Secretaries were elected.

The chairman then introduced Major William Frew, the reform candidate for Congress who addressed the meeting at considerable length, but confined himself throughout to the honesty of himself and other candidates on the reform ticket, more particularly to himself however. He held that the reform party was outside of the Republican organization, and that it had gone out for the purpose of purifying the party, because it was impossible to purify it and remain in the organization.

Mr. Dravo, a capitalist largely identified in the coal interest, was the next speaker. He opened his remarks with a high eulogy upon the Republican party—its honesty and integrity—and closed with a eulogy upon Mr. Walton, one of the reform candidates for Assembly. It was quite evident from his remarks that he was there in Mr. Walton's interest, and, as Mr. Walton is a coal dealer, it is not improbable that Mr. Walton's interests are Mr. Dravo's also. Who knows but that there may be some design on the coal miners whom such men as these (we don't say them) have repeatedly deluded? He attempted to defend Mr. Walton against what he pleased to term an unjust attack made by the GAZETTE relative to the New Jersey Steamship Company bill, but signally failed to convince even himself that the bill was not the "biggest job" of the session, and he admitted that Mr. Walton voted for it.

Mr. Carnahan was next introduced and attempted to explain the origin of the Reform party. The speech was mainly an attack upon Hon. Miles Humphries.

Messrs. Dravo and Carnahan differed with Maj. Frew on a very important point. They would not admit that the Reform party was outside of the Republican party. Mr. Carnahan, in conclusion, promised to address the audience more at length at some future time. The band then struck up "Shoo Fly, Don't Bodder Me."

Up until this time the audience had been extremely attentive and unusually quiet, but when it was ascertained that the meeting was about to adjourn, there were loud cries from the audience for "Marshall."

Mr. Carothers moved to adjourn and the President adjourned the meeting without putting the question.

Mr. Caruthers then moved three cheers for the "Reform ticket" which was responded to by himself, one man in the "crowd" and five on the stand.

A "reformer" on the stand proposed three cheers for Walton, to which Dravo, Carothers and Shane responded.

A voice in the audience then proposed three cheers for the "Regular Republican ticket" which was responded to in the true Republican style by at least three-fourths of the persons present, with three times three.

Attempted Burglary.

Between one and two o'clock on Tuesday morning Officer Peter Cruder discovered a man working at the door of Mr. E. Houston's merchant tailoring establishment, at the corner of Fifth avenue and Cherry alley, and proceeded to arrest him. He had no sooner taken hold of him than an accomplice of the burglar, who had been secreted in the alley, made an attempt to rescue his "pal," and the officer rapped for assistance. A reporter of one of the morning papers was passing up the street on the opposite side and seeing the officer in trouble, went to his assistance. He took hold of the largest of the two men and the fellow threw him in the gutter. He got up again, not much injured by the fall, and again grappled with his man and succeeded in holding him until an officer arrived, when the villains were taken to the tombs. Yesterday morning, there being no evidence of a burglary being committed, the prisoners were fined $25 and costs each.

Fatal Accident.

A distressing accident, resulting in the death of Clara Bell, a little child seventeen months old, daughter of Mr. John Bell, residing at the corner of Penn and Twenty-sixth streets, occurred Wednesday evening about seven o'clock. The mother had just placed a pitcher filled with boiling water on the table, and sat down on a chair near it with the child in her arms. Her attention for a moment was drawn to another part of the room, when the child caught hold of the pitcher and upset it, spilling the boiling water upon itself. The little thing was terribly scalded externally, and most probably inhaled some of the scalding steam. A physician was sent for and did all in his power, but to no purpose, as it expired at twelve o'clock yesterday.

AT Ramsgate, on the 29th of August, between twelve and half-past twelve o'clock, there was a rapid and very unusual rise of the sea, not unlike the "bore" which is seen in some tidal rivers, accompanied by a succession of heavy waves, which rolled up the harbor with prodigious force.

A NEW danger to the peaceful inhabitants of Great Britain seems to have arisen out of the Franco-German war, and it has developed itself in an unexpected quarter. Increased danger to life and limb is incurred by railway travellers, owing to the avidity of signal men for news of the war.

HARTMAN, the Commander of the Second Bavarian Army Corps, who has suffered the most furious attacks on account of his action at the battle of Kissingen, in 1866, solicited and obtained permission from the Commander-in-Chief of the South German army to make the first attack on the French troops. Weissenburg and Woerth have obliterated the remembrance of Kissingen.

THE Italian papers continue to discuss with much warmth the interest of Italy in the great European struggle. The Diritto says. "We repeat what we have said, we should have more fear of a France, omnipotent, united, and compact than of a federal Germany, because in the latter we find those ideas and habits of self-government (the English word is used,) individual and local, of which France ignores the very name."

A COMMUNICATION in the London Times of August 30th, states that there are a large number of governesses, servants and poor English people in Paris, who, for want of means, are unable to return home in compliance with the notice of Gen. Trochu, that all persons who could not provide for themselves must leave the city. A committee has been formed in London to raise subscriptions to assist these destitute English.

AT Cassel, Germany has been lately exhibited a shoe-pegging machine which is worked by the operator placing it with one hand on the shoe, while with his other he sets in motion by turning a handle, the shoe meanwhile being held in a vice. The machine first pierces a hole in the sole of the shoe, and then cuts a peg off of a thick shaving of wood which is fastened to one part of it, being wound round a sort of projection. It drives the peg home and then moves forward, pierces another hole and repeats the operation ad infinitum.

A PARIS correspondent says: "Wishing to see what was doing outside the walls, I drove through the Bois de Boulogne. Alas, that favorite resort of fashion was sad to behold! The roads were deserted, except when a cart laden with provender enlivened the scene; the neatly kept walks are cut up, and the grass plots over which the vigilant eye of the executive watched with parental tenderness are trodden under foot. I learned that 50,000 sheep had entered the Bois during the morning, and that 100,000 bullocks were already installed there. The woods resounded with the lowing of oxen and the bleating of sheep, and every now and again one came upon a pool of blood where some overdriven animal had been slaughtered, and some places on carcasses which the contractors had not had time to remove."

ON Thursday night, C. H. Lewis, of Horicon, shot himself with two balls through the breast. About 4 A. A MAN fell from the top of an embankment two hundred feet into the Missouri river, on Thursday week, and was hauled out of the water by his dog. HALL'S Journal of Health thinks this way: "Men may live long and in health who never taste meat, but they never can excel in any thing that requires energy. The nations which eat no meat, as to the masses, are always inefficient and degraded. They are today what they were ages ago, and they live mainly on rice and other vegetables."

THE Sherman (Texas) Courier says: The dead body of Edwin Booth was brought to that place by a man named Taylor, on the 18th ult. Taylor says they were camping out together, and he was awakened in the night by a blow on the head, and found Booth trying to kill him. Taylor drew his pistol and killed Booth. ON Monday, near Manchester, Dearborn county, Indiana, McDonald Cheek deliberately shot his father-in-law, J. Harrison, causing his death in a few moments. Cheek neglected and abused his wife, and she sought the protection of her father's house. She was not in the house, and the miscreant killed her father. Bailey has been arrested as an accessory, and is now in the Lawrenceburg jail. The murderer is at large, with scores of men in pursuit of him. He will probably be lynched, if caught.

THE following are the last written words of Charles Dickens, the closing sentence of the fragment of the novel Edwin Drood.

THE Topeka Record says that some three years ago, two maiden ladies appeared in the vicinity of Osawkee. They built a cabin of poles, which they carried on their shoulders over a quarter of a mile. In this habitation they have resided ever since, with no protector except a large and savage dog. They bought no land, but invested their money in stock. They now have nineteen head of cattle, forty-eight hogs, eight horses, and a large "out-fit" of geese, chickens, etc. They manage all their business transactions without any outside aid. They cut and put up their own hay, chop their own wood, and do the same amount of work that two men would do under the same circumstances. They have no society, but appear to be women of fair education. The history of these women prior to their appearance in their cabin on the Grasshopper, and the causes which led them to adopt this singular mode of life, are involved in mystery.

A DREADFUL TALE OF SUFFERING AT SEA is that of the shipwreck of the Spanish brig Nacional from Aguadilla, Porto Rico, for Barcelona, with 500 bales of cotton and 314 bags of coffee. She sailed August 18th, under the command of Capt. Pablo Berdaguer, with a crew of nine men and a boy, and for eleven days had fair weather and a good voyage. On the 29th, a cyclone struck them before they had time to reef the sails. It was impossible to run before the gale, the vessel broaching to and the mad waves sweeping her decks. The masts went by the board and two men were torn from the wheel and launched into the seething foam. Soon the vessel went to pieces, and the nine survivors found themselves floating in mid-ocean on a part of the deck-house, split from the hull. They had nothing to eat or drink, and day after day delirium from hunger and thirst caused one after another to jump or fall overboard to die. The fifth day but three remained, the mate, Pablo Alsina, and two of the crew, Augustin Obiol and Joaquin Perez. Lashing themselves to the wreck, but with their hands so as they could use them as well as their exhausted condition would allow them to, these men were also about to give up in dispair, when the bark Gazelle, of New Haven, Connecticut, Capt. Black, bound from St. Pierre, Martinique, to New York with a cargo of sugar and molasses, picked them up, and the captain gave them every care. Their condition was frightful. Wounds from splinters of the wreck had swelled, cracked and festered from the effects of the salt water, and they were reduced almost to skeletons. All were given a teaspoonful of brandy at first; but even this was too much for their shattered systems, and very soon after its ministration, Obiol became unconscous. This man required constant attention and nursing to save his life, and nothing was left undone, by direction of the captain, until he was able to walk about. They were brought to New York in safety, and will all, doubtless recover.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 114@114¼.

THE Chicago Times says: "The Germans rush to arms when Bismarck signals with his finger, as swine rush to the slaughter house." This comparison of a German to a hog is, we suppose, an illustration of that Democratic "sympathy" the World has been prating about.

A TELEGRAM from Marseilles asserts that Garibaldi will shortly leave for Lyons to take command of an Italian legion, to fight against the Germans. We have not the slightest belief in the truth of any such rumor, but suppose it is one of those army inventions that raise without even a conceivable origin.

OUR TELEGRAMS to-day disclose nothing positive not already known to our readers. The Prussian army is drawing close to Paris. Its right is at Campaigne, distant about sixty-three miles from Paris, while its centre is at Meaux, some twenty-eight miles from the capital. The left of the Prussian army is advancing by Aube.

FROM BERLIN we learn that Prussia would have recognized the Provisional government of Paris, if the exactions proposed by the Prussians had been assented to. This, however, is in flat contradiction to the repeated assertions of King William that he would only treat with the Imperial government or its representatives. A telegram from London dated Sept. 15 asserts that Prussia proposes first to occupy Paris, and then to summon the Regency, Senate and Corps Legislatif, who must appoint commissioners to arrange any treaty. This does not look much like recognizing the French Republic.

SENATOR LOWRY having retired from the contest in the Erie District, the Hon. G. W. Scofield has a clear field with his Democratic opponent. It has at no time seemed probable to us that any complication could exist to endanger his election. The Republican majority in his district was too great to be shaken by the threatened disaffection, and he has been too faithful a Representative and is far too able a man to be dropped for any trivial cause. Mr. Scofield is one of the most able and really serviceable men in the present Congress, and his constituents do well for themselves and the county by keeping him there.—Commercial.

Thus it has been ever with the pets of the Commercial. If any sheet in the State of Pennsylvania can be charged with urging on Lowry to those acts that have ostracised him from the Republican party, that sheet is the Commercial. Having by its advice, support and assistance dishonored him in the eyes of sound Republicans it has not the least hesitation in casting him aside for one more likely to succeed. It plays almost the same game with Mr. Brunot. After putting his name for weeks at the head of its ticket, as soon as it finds there is not the least hope of his election, it enters into an earnest commendation of McJunkin. Major Frew will probably be its next victim, and one by one it will cast them off utterly regardless of the fact that it has by its misrepresentations been inducing, persuading, begging and hectoring them into compliance with its agonized wishes to allow their names to remain, so that it might be a leader for a little while. Politically it is not reliable now, and never was, and never will be, just so long as it continues to be infected with its present insanity of being something great and fit to lead a party.

IN READING over the Sunday World, a new enterprise of the Democracy, we came across a notice of the Democratic candidate for Congress in this district, a sort of biographical sketch, in which it stated that James H. was a very good and a very bright boy at school; that he got his lessons well, and that it was remarked by the multitude of observers who take such notice of children that in personal appearance he very much resembled Shakspeare! There was the lofty brow, the intellectual cast of features, the effeminate appearance, and everything to indicate that the sweet bard of Avon had been personally reproduced in this darling little duck.

Alas! How ruthlessly the dreams and illusions of youth are dispelled! The happy, happy hours of childhood, how soon, how soon they pass away, so to speak. This brilliant promise of Hopkins' young days, which marked him as the dramatic genius of the future, and made the admirers of the lad hope that America should have a "divine James," as England has in Shakspeare a "divine William," has been dashed to the ground, and the boy of whom so much was expected, turns out in his mature days, a lawyer after the style of Conversation Kenge, of the firm of Kenge & Carboy, and a Democratic candidate for Congress.

Looking back to the bright promise of his youth, thus unkindly brought to light by the Sunday World, and comparing it with his present position, Hopkins might exclaim, in the language of one of the sonnets of Shakspeare, (whom he so much resembled in his adolescence):

"My nature is subdued
To what it works in, like the dyer's hand:
Pity me, then, and wish I were renewed."

And don't we! Do we not thus prompted by the unearthed reminiscences of the new Democratic organ, wish that he were renewed in the early promise of his youth, and that we could boast of having a Shakspeare among us! But, alas! it cannot be. That bright vision was but for a season, and none were favored with a view of it but the happy witnesses of his schoolboy days. Luckily for us, the school he went to was not in this county, so that we are saved from the pain of being disillusioned, and those before whom flitted the face of Shakspear redivivus do not have to vote for him as a Democratic candidate for Congress. Thus both they and we are saved this step from the sublime to the ridiculous, and the matter-of-fact men of to-day will have to be left to the delusion that Conversation Kenge was always what he is now.

SAMPLE CARDS.

The National Democratic Committee have issued sample cards. They are about thirty inches square, and have pasted on them different samples of cloth, dress goods, carpets, spool thread, &c. Beneath each article is a statement of the foreign cost, duty, price in New York, and the price it could be bought for here, if we had no protective Tariff.

The World presents one sample, that of spool cotton, and under its Democratic calculation shows, that we have to pay 8 to 10 cents for that which in England can be purchased for three. We will not enter into its estimates, but assuming them to be true, we inquire why stop at this particular spot. A few years ago Hood's "song of the shirt," was a living reality in our midst. Pale faced, invalid women, were, stitch by stitch, sewing their own shrouds for an early grave, while being remunerated with a few cents for making a shirt. We might make a glorious rejoicing over starvation and penury, and shout hosannas, that at that time we could get a shirt made by a pauper bearing a little semblance to flesh and blood, for the sum of twelve or fifteen cents. We might bewail the fact, that to-day, labor was better paid, and little children have a better chance of being raised free from that temptation, that accompanies never ending hunger. We might laud the hour, when the dead child of a seamstress, was lucky to secure a box and a pauper's grave. But we thank Heaven that those days and hours are passing away. We are willing to pay double for the price of one shirt, if it only keeps by a fair remuneration, bread in the mouth, and fuel on the hearth, of those who have made it.

Not so with the Democratic party. It comes forth with its sample card, to show how cheaply spool cotton may be purchased in England. There it stops, for it dare go no further. In order to get that cotton cheaply in our States, it would deprive us of protection. Thus far it would assume the free-trade policy of England. Spool cotton, it shouts aloud, can be purchased in England for three cents; take away a protective tariff, and you can buy it here for four; what the free trade policy of England has done for that country it will do for us.

But what has that policy done for England. In the language of an English writer "it has already struck down the silk and ribbon trades of Macclesfield and Coventy, the iron trade districts, and also many minor branches of trade, bringing to poverty and ruin millions of our population. It is now undermining that magnificent industry, the cotton trade of this district, on which our position as a nation so largely depends."

What a fearful comment on the very article selected by the World. "Bringing poverty and ruin to millions of our people." The same writer asserts that "all are suffering alike from the effects of this ruinous system, and I am fully persuaded that if not quickly altered it will eventuate in one common ruin every commercial interest in the country."

Why does not the Democratic Committee append to its sample cards this testimony adduced against a free trade policy. Why not give us the information, out of whose pockets will come this reduction of seven cents on every spool? Why not tell us on their sample cards, how much flesh and blood the purchaser, at the reduced rate, will buy with his four cents? True, in England, it is unpaid English flesh and blood, English men, women and children, and English paupers, but introduce English free trade policy, and how soon will it be American men, women and children whose labors are unrequited.

We urge the Democratic Committee to place beneath every sample, the home history of every manufactured price. They have gone to the trouble of hunting the sample and finding its cost in the English market, let it add the wages of those who manufactured it. Let them answer the plain question if the wages of our laborers will not be reduced to a level with the unpaid labor in England, just so soon as spool cotton is lowered to one-third its present price. Let all these facts be on their sample cards, so that the people may appreciate its arguements and then we are willing to leave it to the people.

ANOTHER CHARGE NAILED.

It is idle to pay any attention to what the Commercial asserts. It is not a common scold but much worse, a common traducer and falsifier. Its conductors have studied the art of misrepresentation and deserve place at the head of the class of those who deal little in truth. There is very little talent and much less conscience required to attain proficiency in the art of misrepresenting honest men, and hence the Commercial making a specialty of that branch of journalism, excels, and should, if it does not, excite admiration on that score. Its last shameless attempt in this direction was made yesterday, wh n in an ingeniously conceived article i. traveled a great distance into empty language to give its readers the impression that Maj. Errett, the United States Assessor of this District, had bought his way into the place. Those who know Maj. Errett knew the insinuation was false and unjust; those who knew the character of the Commercial were sure that the general, not specific, charge implied was wholly devoid of truth. But we have no idea of entering into any defense of Maj. Errett in the premises, for he is amply able to take care of himself, and his simple word of affirmation or denial goes a great distance in this community where he is so universally known as a man of strict integrity and honor. He effectually disposes of the Commercial's idle and unwarranted charge in the subjoined cards:

TO THE EDITORS OF THE GAZETTE: The following appears in the Commercial of Thursday:

People hereabouts know that Russell Errett is Assessor of Internal Revenue in this District. Not many may know just how he obtained the appointment. There were two applicants—Felix C. Negley, General Negley's cousin, and Errett. The practice in Washington is to appoint whoever receives the endorsement of the Congressman of the District. It is in some respects a pernicious practice, which Gen. Grant of late has to a considerable extent disregarded. Felix received the endorsement of the General, or the General signified his intention to give it, though Errett, who was the "set up" applicant, counted confidently on having it. When this became known there was a row in the camp, and Errett, who was in the Senate at Harrisburg, was telegraphed to "come on." He started immediately, accompanied by Sam. Barr, "Don" Cameron and others of that ilk. A prudent friend of Errett met the party at the Washington depot, and counseled that a meeting between Errett and General Negley should be prevented, lest the irrascible temper for which both gentlemen are somewhat noted, should spoil all. The friend's advice was that while Errett kept out of the way, Gen. Negley should be waited on by Barr, or "Don," or perhaps Mackey, or all three, by whom things should be "fixed up." This programme was observed. The General was found to be stubbornly for Felix, who, having assisted him in meeting the expenses of the late political canvass, was entitled to the office of Assessor. Besides, he was as qualified for the position as Errett. How much money had Felix advanced? Between two and three thousand dollars. The thing was talked over in a practical way from this standpoint. The next day, or perhaps the day after, General Negley and Errett met, good as a pie, and General Negley's endorsement was given to Errett's application, Felix withdrawing, "unwilling to embarrass the General." Probably no money was paid or check given. Probably General Negley, on a second thought, was convinced how unreasonable it was to insist upon the appointment of Felix, and probably Felix, too, became convinced that it was wrong to "embarrass the General." At any rate, Errett, having obtained General Negley's indorsement, received the appointment.

There is scarcely a word of truth in this whole statement, and all its inuendoes and suggestions are false. I did not start from Harrisburg "accompanied by Sam. Barr, 'Don' Cameron and others of that ilk." No one accompanied me, and "Don" Cameron was not to my knowledge within a hundred miles of Washington at the time of my visit; no one met me at the depot; no one counseled that a meeting between Gen. Negley and myself should be prevented; no one advised that I should be kept out of the way, nor that "Gen. Negley should be waited on by Barr, or 'Don,' or perhaps Mackey, or all three, by whom things should be fixed up." No such programme was observed; no such interview took place. No conversation ever occurred as to "how much money Felix had advanced," and the whole story, from beginning to end, is as baseless as the fabric of a vision.

As this story, somewhat different in details, has been circulated verbally, very industriously, I desire to say that no converstion ever took place between Gen. Negley or Felix C. Negley and myself, at Washington City or elsewhere, nor between them or either of them and any one else and me, relative to advances made by the latter to the former to pay the expenses of the election; that I never was asked, as the condition of my appointment, by them or either of them, or by any one for them, to reimburse one or the other for that outlay; that no suggestion was ever made to me, to that end, by any one else for them or either of them; that I never paid Gen. Negley or Felix C. Negley, any sum whatever, either as the condition of my appointment or otherwise, nor to any person for them or either of them, nor did I ever promise to pay them or either of them, or any one else for them, either personally or through others, nor did I ever authorize any one else to pay or promise to pay. My appointment did not cost me a cent beyond the ordinary traveling expenses of one visit to Washington, and I give to all reports in circulation to the contrary a positive and emphatic contradiction

RUSSELL ERRETT.

I have read the foregoing denial of Mr. Errett, and concur with him in giving to the statements of the Commercial referred to by him, a decided and positive contradiction. At some future time I may enter more into the details of this subject, should these unjust and unjustifiable attacks upon me be continued; but for the present I content myself with stamping the statements of the Commercial and the kindred reports in circulation, as false and unfounded. JAS. S. NEGLEY.

The Metropolitan Underworld.

The Paris correspondent of the Daily News writes, under date of August 28, as follows: "You know the stage traps in pantomime time, upon which the guards of 'The Depraved Demon of Dumbledownderry' comes up, armed cap-a-pie, thirsting for the abduction of maidens and the blood of the innocent. You have seen, too, mysterious men clad as divers or colliers, in huge stiff boots and blue jerseys, emerge from the London pavements, white-faced and mephitic, and have said to yourself placidly, 'sewers.' Combine these experiences as Count Smortork did 'Chinese' and 'metaphysics,' and you will arrive at something far more practical than he. What think you of the enemy entering a modern city by its subterranean ways; and at a given signal appearing above ground? The chance of the Prussians attempting this in Paris is actually being canvassed, and the few people who have been at the pains to ascertain for themselves, and by nauseous personal experience, what the sewers of a well-drained capital are like, what it is to walk in them and to follow their courses, will admit the possibility of a vast force finding its way below ground to any portion of a city. For example, every street in the city of London has its hidden counterpart below. The sewer map of the engineer to the corporation, Mr. Hayward, is as complete in its general outlines as a map of the city itself, and beneath all the larger thoroughfares men can walk erect, and in many of them three or four abreast. The subterranean works of Paris are more wonderful still, and are admitted to surpass those of ancient Rome. From the suburb of Asieres to the Place de la Concorde an enormous subway runs, which is sixteen feet and a half high, eighteen feet broad, and more than three miles long. Besides this are below the city three spacious galleries running on each side of the Seine, the whole being provided with air-traps at regular intervals, and lighted with oil lamps. Descend into either of these, and you find them to be as well built as those beneath the city of London, and with facilities for cleansing them which are extremely suggestive of their value for stragetical purposes. The subterranean drains, or galleries, are furnished with iron tramways, along which small carts run, which are pushed by three men and furnished with a drop-plank, which fits exactly into the drain, and pushes the mud before as it advances. On the turbid waters of the great collector between Asnieres and the Place de la Concorde, a good-sized boat is navigated, and the wildest stories are abroad respecting its possible uses to the enemy. Most of these may be dismissed as idle, but I am in a position to affirm that a careful inspection of these subterranean works has been made, and that Paris is preparing itself, down even to the waters under the earth, for the possible reception of its foe. If gunpowder will blow up iron traps, water will spoil gunpowder, and the sanitary rite known as flushing the sewers would effectually dispose of an intruding force. The catacombs, again, into which seventy different staircases lead, and which extend not merely under the Faubourgs St. Germain, St. Jacques and St. Marcel, but under such important buildings as the Palace of Luxemburg and the Pantheon, have had more attention paid them within the last two days than has been the case for years. Their uses under contingencies, which it is inexpedient to name, their size and value as repositories, are all canvassed eagerly, and nothing shows more plainly the anticipations of the people of Paris than the keen interest they display i3 such topics as these.

Caught a Tartar.

In New Orleans, recently, Joseph Becker, a confidence man, discovered that six of bullets would take ace of sharp, after the following manner: It seems that Mr. H. C. Dowd, a rural gent on his way up the river, made his acquaintance on the levee. The usual pleasantry coincident to their journeying in the same direction, it is said, was at once broached by the facetious Joseph, and at the same time, it appears, mentioned, as a witty en passant, that he was the owner of a considerable amount of freight on board the boat on which they were to take passage. While the acquaintance was warming into friendship a humorous friend of Mr. Becker stepped up to collect a bill. Mr. B. had unfortunately left his money in the hotel. The business man was obdurate. He insisted that the money must be paid or the freight would at once be brought back to the shore. He at length, after much persuasion, consented to take part of the money on account, and Mr. Dowd, being appealed to, loaned the perplexed Becker $89 dollars in gold. Becker, after wandering through the city with his new found friend, and attempting to get away on various pretexts, at length bolted. Mr. Dowd quietly drew a revolver. A full hand happened to be good, and Mr. Becker philosophically threw down the cards. Becker was arrested, and by a singular accident the money appeared almost simultaneously.

THE Dutch Government has laid a project of law before the Chambers, introducing an income tax on all revenues above £33 in smaller and £50 in larger towns The amount levied is to be fixed annually. For 1870 it is to be ½ per cent. on all incomes exceeding the above mentioned sums. On the other hand, all professional and trade licenses will be done away with. These latter produced in 1869 about £280,000 of the £6,500,000, the amount of all the taxes.

Sketch of the Papal Territory.

After a rule extending over a period of more than eleven hundred years, the day seems at hand when the Pope shall cease to exercise temporal power, and when Rome shall once more become the capital of Italy. Ten years ago the greater part of the Papal Territory revolted and was annexed to the Government of Victor Emmanuel. In 1859 the Pope's temporalities covered 15,289 square miles of territory, containing a population of 3,124,668 The revolt of 1860 took away everything but the civil divisions of Rome and Comarca, Viterbo, Civita Vecchia, Velletri and Frosinone—the whole containing 4,599 square miles and a population of 692,163. Geographically the States of the Church are bounded on the north by Tuscany, on the east by Umbria and Naples, on the south by Naples, and on the southwest by the Mediterranean Sea. Their greatest extent from north to south is about 120 miles, with a breadth varying from eighteen to fifty miles. The coast line measures about 160 miles, and is in nearly all places low and often marshy. Although it is broken by numerous bays, nearly all are so small and shallow that they are totally unfit for harbor purposes. Civita Vecchia is the single exception, and even that place possesses but few natural advantages as a commercial seaport. It has been, however, since 1860, the only seaport held by the Pope, and has served as the principal means of entrance and exit to and from Rome.

Civita Vecchia is situated on the Mediterranean, some thirty-eight miles northwest of Rome, and contains a population of 7,000 souls. It is surrounded by walls, i is well built and contains numerous convents, churches and hospitals, an arsenal, building docks, a theatre and convict establishment. The Emperor Trajan built the Port. The harbor is formed by two large moles, and outside is a breakwater which protects the shipping from heavy seas, brought in by western gales. For many years Civita Vecchia has been a free port and at one time carried on an extensive trade. Since the dismemberment of the Papal territory, however, its commerce has been declining, and at the present time its business is comparatively small. Nevertheless, the town has regular communication with Marseilles, Goena, Leghorn, Naples, Greece, Egypt and Turkey. A railroad connects it with Rome.

The physical aspect of the States of the Church is mountainous, save on the sea coast, where it is flat and marshy. The principal river is the Tiber, which rises in Tuscany, and pursues a tortuous course east and southeast to within twenty-five miles of Rome, when it flows mostly south-southwest to the Mediterranean. In consequence of the difficulty of distinguishing the land from the sea the mouth of the Tiber is dangerous to approach, and the danger is increased by the prevalence of thick fogs during the greater part of the year.

As a general rule the soil of the country is possessed of great natural fertility, and with ordinary care, produces large crops. It is doubtful, however, if there is any other part of Christian Europe where cultivation is more primitive than here. The principal productions are grapes, olives, silk, rice, tobacco, coriander, anise seeds, manna, sugar cane, indigo and cotton. Live stock is abundant, goats and sheep being in large numbers. They are valued principally for their milk, from which large quantities of cheese are made. In addition to these productions there are several manufactories of silk, woolens and hosiery, perfumery, jewelry, mosaics, &c., but none of them can be said to flourish. One great drawback to industry in the Roman States is the want of good roads. There is but one short railroad, and the ordinary highways are in very bad condition. Communication across the Appenines is exceedingly difficult, and is carried on mainly by mules. The present Pontiff has several times exerted himself to carry out plans of improvement, but has never succeeded in doing anything, principally because of his want of funds, and partly from the political agitations which have r pelled capital from seeking investments in this part of Italy.

Of Rome it is unnecessary to say anything. There is hardly a child in the United States ignorant of the history of this most famous city in the world. It would be well here, however, to correct a false impression which is current with many persons, and some well informed ones among them. In Rome and throughout the Roman territory facilities for education abound to a greater extent than in any other part of the Continent, excepting France and Germany. At the last census the ratio of educated persons in Rome was estimated at one to six of the whole population, which is a better exhibit than in England, where the ratio is as one to eight and a half. There are several universities and numerous other schools in the territory, at most of which education is free.

Should the States of the Church be annexed to Italy, the oldest government in Europe will be swept out of existence. During the reign of the Emperor Constantine the Catholic Church began acquiring property in Rome. In 726 the Popes possessed considerable power and influence. Elected by the popular vote, they had endeared themselves to the people, who finally paid them that allegiance which had been extended to the Emperors. When, in 741, the Lombards laid siege to Rome, the Pontiff, Gregory III., sent an embassy to France imploring the aid of Charles Martel. Subsequently Pope Stephen II. obtained the aid of Pepin, who marched an army into Italy, defeated the Lombards and compelled their King not only to abandon his design upon Rome, but also to cede to the Pope a great deal of territory, situated principally on the Adriatic. From this time the Popes became temporal sovereigns and their territorial possessions were greatly enlarged by Charlemagne, after his destruction of the Lombard monarchy. Ever since the Popes have been the rulers of Rome and a great part of Italy. Repeatedly driven from the city and despoiled of their temporalities, they have always succeeded in regaining possession after intervals of war. In 1860 the first what may be called peaceable spoilation took place, nearly all foreign Powers advising Pope Pius to acquiesce in the seizure of the greater part of his dominions. Napoleon III. recommended him to voluntarily give up everything but Rome. He indignantly rejected this advice, and responded to the violence of the Italian Government by excommunicating Victor Emmanuel He is now, we suppose, powerless to resist what seems to be the inevitable result of the present European complications.

The Suez Canal as it Now Appears.

[From the Boston Traveller.]

The Wabash and Erie canal, 469 miles in length, occupies a space of 400,672,400 cubic feet, or more than half as much as the Suez canal. Take seven of the largest canals in the United States, and any two of them will represent an amount of labor as large as does the Suez canal. The difficulty with the Suez canal is found in the fact that it does not, and never will be, done. Storms of sand and land-slides combine to defeat the object for which this avenue was constructed, and nothing but a perpetual dredging will keep it in a passable condition, making the work of keeping it clear of sand bars a constant repetition of the original work. But all this does not prevent it being a great success.

Now, all the through lines to India Australia and China pass through the canal, and since the Messagerie Imperial and Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Companies began to use it, the canal has been crowded with the shipping of all nations. It takes a steamer ten or twelve hours to pass through, provided no sailing vessel in tow hinders the passage, and is a much safer transit than can be found in the wide treacherous Red Sea beyond. The system of light, signals, pilotage and towage is now so complete that the navigation in the canal is as safe and convenient as the entrance into New York harbor, while the constant dredging and excavating is every day improving the channel.

How much of a financial success it may be I cannot tell, as the number of men constantly employed exceeds one thousand, and the number of dredging machines over one hundred, which is a separate bill of expense from the tug boats, pilots, &c. But at two dollars a ton toll upon ships, and two dollars each upon passengers, there must be taken —now that it is crowded—at least $30,000 a day, beside the receipts for towage, pilots, supplies, wharfage, &c. As far as Egypt is concerned, it has been already of sufficient advantage to cover all expenses. The fresh water canal, which was built along the line of the larger to supply transportation and water for beast and man while at work, has already changed the face of the country for miles on either side of it. Before its construction the railroad to Suez was often blocked by sand, which, like the snow in New England, blew up in great drifts over the track, and sometimes stopped the passage of trains for weeks. But since the presence of fresh water has covered a strip of the desert with vegetation, the track of the railroad has been changed, and running along this canal is never troubled with sand drifts; and the amount of labor saved on the railroad would construct the canal in two years. Without an inhabitant ten years ago, this was a useless dismal waste. But to-day, towns and villages, thrifty and enterprising, stand at short intervals.

THE Lavacca (Texas) Commercial of August 31st says: Captain Helm reports, of the Matagorda crimes, that the Lum gang had been dispersed and left the country. They had been killing cattle at the rate of one hundred per day, for their hides. He says he counted one thousand and fourteen dead carcasses, which had been killed for their hides. W. W. Lum, one of the gang, who is badly wounded, acknowledges to have assisted in killing three men, one of whom they robbed.

A TAINTED ATMOSPHERE.

Malarious fevers are most prevalent in the fall. Heavy and unwholesome exhalations then arise from the earth, and the great disparity between the temperature of day and night predisposes the system, enfeebled by the summer heats, to epidemic diseases. The secretive organs, the liver especially, are apt, at this period of the year, to become inert and sluggish, and all the bodily powers require renovation. The best, indeed the only protection against the morbid influences of the season is a wholesome medicated stimulant. Preeminent among the restoratives of this class, and indeed foremost among the remedial and preventive medicines of modern times, stands Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Its reputation is co-extensive with the Western Hemisphere; it has been a standard article for twenty years; its sales (as may be ascertained by the revenue returns) are far larger than those of any other proprietary preparation on this continent; and the testimony in its favor embraces letters of approval from the most distinguished members of all the learned professions and from well known residents of almost every city in the Union. These are its credentials. To state what it is doing to prevent and assuage the sufferings of the human family would require more space than can be given to the subject here. The dyspeptic, the bilious, the nervous, the weak and emaciated, the desponding, the broken down, find in its renovating and regulating properties a sure and immediate means of relief. It is a pure vegetable specific, at once safe and potent, and for which the whole materia medica affords no substitute.

GRATES! GRATES! GRATES!
Keep Your Houses Clean,
AND SAVE FUEL,
BY USING THE
Wellman Patent Reflector Grate.
WHICH STANDS WITHOUT A RIVAL.

We claim for it the following advantages over any other in use:

1st. As a radiator of heat it has double the intensity.

2d. It is unquestionably the most cleanly—very little soot or ashes escaping into the room—which, in the ordinary Grate, proves so detrimental to carpets and furniture.

3d. The combustion is perfect. There is no waste in unburnt cinders—every ounce of the fuel is so completely consumed, that nothing remains but the finest ashes.

4th. As an economizer of fuel—there being an actual saving of at least 25 per cent.

5th. It is highly ornamental.

6th. It is set so deep in the chimney, that it is much safer, and also less liable to puff in windy weather.

7th. A slight motion of the shaker cleanses the entire fire, and causes it to burn with great brilliancy and intensity of heat.

Samples may be seen and references had at the store of W. BARNES, corner of 3d avenue and Market street, Pittsburgh; W. F. GOODWIN, 66 Federal street, Allegheny, or at the FOUNDRY, corner Duquesne Way and Water street, Pittsburgh.

Parties who are building, or who contemplate changing Grates, are respectfully requested to examine "The Wellman." Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.

Wheeler & Wilson and Elliptic Companies combined	7,915

The above are the sworn returns (to which any one can have access) made to the receiver appointed by the owners of valuable Sewing Machine patents who license most of the Companies of lesser importance.

It is a well-known fact that the Singer Company has not had recourse to canvassers running from house to house to sell their machines, nor has it made anything like the efforts made by other Companies to effect that end.

Hence it follows that their Improved Family Machine must possess an extraordinary amount of merit to have achieved such remarkable success.

The Improved Singer Machine makes the lock stitch alike on both sides. It is the only machine having a self-adjusting tension which requires no change for all sizes of needles, thread or goods. It uses a straight needle, which is easily set and is much shorter than that of any other Machine.

It has the Fewest Parts.
Runs as Light as the Lightest.
Makes but Little Noise.
Requires no Adjustment.
Cannot Get Out of Order.
Requires Less than Half the Skill Required to Operate any other Machine.
Does not have to be Taken Apart to Oil and Clean it.
Its Work Does Not Require to be Assisted, and it will not Draw or Pucker the Finest or Flimsiest Goods.

Wooden Bobbins.

Heretofore persons using sewing machines have been more or less troubled by having to re-wind the under thread on the bobbins. The Improved Singer does away with this trouble by the use of Church's wooden bobbins, ready filled with a superior article of spool cotton, which can be had as cheap as though the operator bought the ordinary spools and rewound them. All persons are invited to call and examine the Singer before purchasing elsewhere.

There are no Canvassers for the Singer.

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL PRIVATE DISEASES, Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produce some of the following effects as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.

A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, Pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.

It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.

The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.

The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays 12 M. to 3 P. M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE ST (near Court House) Pittsburgh.

MONEY AND COMMERCE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, Sept. 15, 1870.

Transactions to-day in our local money market indicate no change worthy of special mention. Strictly first class borrowers, double names, or approved collaterals, find little difficulty in getting loans at 9@10 per cent. Lower grade paper moves less easy at 11 per cent. for sixty days or four months rates.

There was a light business in bonds and stocks. Sales are reported of Allegheny Valley 7-30 bonds at 89¼; Western Penna. R. R. 7's at 8¾; Pittsburgh & St. Louis (Panhandle) are offered at 80—last sale in our market 76. They are, for some unexplained reason, decidedly slow bonds to sell, either in this market or in Philadelphia. We may quote, from late sales, M. & M. National at 70@70½, Second National at 103¾, Keystone Savings Bank at 93@94, Citizens National at 68; $60 was bid during the day for Citizens Insurance stock—last sale at $50. Insurance stocks do not seem to command the favor which they deserve. An average estimate of the amount of dividends paid during the past ten years by the above named companies will compare favorably, we are confident, with any bank in the city, and an average calculation for a series of years is the only fair test of merit. A little irregularity is confessed; but an average for ten years, of from 12@15 per cent. per annum upon the par value ought to establish a value beyond doubt or criticism. The decline in oil weakened confidence somewhat in oil stocks. There is considerably less inquiry for Columbia this week. Dalzell also is quiet, though we have assurances from headquarters that share holders may expect another dividend in October.

Gold opened in New York this morning at 114¼. Our four P. M. dispatches report it 114.

Government bonds opened at a decline, with less activity, but fairly steady, and closed without any decided change.

Stocks started off well, and maintained their activity throughout the day, closing at the most substantial advance made during the week. The market looks bullish, and private dispatches report the street as full of "points" about to be made on favorite railway shares. Chicago & Northwestern, taking its yearly earnings at an estimate of value, looks high at 81¾, and yet its "point" is par, so its friends say. Milwaukee & St. Paul, on the same basis, looks cheap at 64 (to-day's sales) and yet large operators sells 60 day calls at 61.

Cleveland & Pittsburgh, a month ago was quoted at 110—it was certainly going to be put up to 125. It is to-day quoted at 107¼.

Last of all, Erie, Gould, Fisk & Co.'s Erie, is to have a revival. The Jonah (Fisk) is to be thrown overboard, and an honest management inaugurated, with Peter B. Sweeny, Tammany Teacher, as President. Redivivus Erie! The "point" is not mentioned. "Honest management" was all the street could credit at once.

PITTSBURGH MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, WEDNESDAY, September 14, 1870.

The hog product market is beginning to attract considerable attention, which is always the case at near approach of the packing season. As a matter of course there is considerable difference of feeling in regard to the prospective course of the market, but the impression is gaining strength among those who have given the matter considerable attention, that in view of an unusually large corn crop, that prices are likely to rule low—lower than for some years past. The rapid approach of the packing season, however, does not forbid an apprehension of a short supply of meat for the trade intervening between the present date, and the first of November. That stocks are light is evident from the fact that the amount of shoulders and sides held in Chicago, taken from actual count on the 9th, footed up 2,700,000 pounds. A leading Chicago broker writes that "one-fourth of the short ribs and shoulders are held on Baltimore account, and will not be offered in Chicago on any terms, thus rendering the stock on sale at that point 2,[illegible] lbs. A careful estimate places the stock here, and at points above, at not over 7,[illegible] lbs, showing a total supply on the Mississippi and the lake of less than 9,[illegible] lbs. Against this we place shipments South of over 1,000,000 lbs bacon for the week ending Saturday. It is evident not only that there will be no large stocks to carry over into the next packing season, but that the supply is scarcely equal to the prospective demand for one month."

APPLES—There is no falling off in the arrivals, and no improvement in the demand, and consequently the market is dull, though prices are unchanged, ranging from $[illegible] per bbl.

ASHES—Common soda ash, [illegible]; refined, 4½; Pearls, [illegible]; Pots [illegible].

BROOM CORN—Is quiet and unchanged; in the absence of sales may be quoted at [illegible] per lb.

BUTTER—There is a continued fair demand for the better grades, but common and inferior are dull, unless sold at about the price of lard. Sales of fair to medium at [illegible] and prime to choice at [illegible].

CHEESE—Is less active and weaker though unchanged. We now quote at [illegible] for Western Reserve, [illegible] for Ohio Factory and [illegible] for Ohio Goshen.

BEANS—Dull; [illegible] per bushel, the outside figure for choice navy.

CIDER—Sales prime sweet [illegible].

CARBON OIL—Is hardly as strong though unchanged; we continue to quote at [illegible] for standard brands, in 25 or 50 barrel lots. Demand, as is always the case at this season of the year, is light.

CEMENT—Sales Louisville Hydraulic at [illegible] and Calcined Plaster at [illegible] per bbl.

CORN MEAL—Is dull and unchanged, [illegible] per bushel.

DRIED FRUITS—Demand very light and stock ample, unchanged.

EGGS—Continue scarce and with a steady demand, fresh sell readily at 22, and if pressed might bring 23.

FLOUR—Is quiet and devoid of a single new characteristic worthy of special notice. We continue to quote (old wheat) western flours at $6@7 per bbl for fair to choice brands. Rye flour dull at $5.50@6.

FRUITS—Peaches are selling readily at $3@4 per bushel, and plums at $5@6. Grapes dull at 5@6c per lb.

EGGS—In limited supply and fresh sell readily at 22 cts.

GRAIN—There is very little doing in wheat, not much offering and not much inquiry for it; the mills continue to pay $1.15@1.20 for red; $1.25@1.30 for mixed and $1.30@1.35 for white. Oats steady with a demand fully up to the supply and prices are fully sustained; we continue to quote round lots at 44@45, buying and 48@50 selling. Shelled corn is as dull as ever and ho'ders are just as anxious to realize, but there seems to be no demand for it. Ear corn is scarce and in demand and we can report small sales at 90@95—a round lot would hardly command these figures. Rye is quiet and in the absence of sales, may be quoted nominally at 80@85. Prime barley is in steady demand at $1.15 for spring and $1.20 for fall.

HAY—Is being sold from country wagons at $12@19 for common to prime. Very little doing in baled hay.

HONEY—Sales at 25@35 cts.

HUSKS—Sales at 2¾@3 cts.

LIME—Sales of Cleveland at $2.25 per bbl and eastern at $1.75.

LARD OIL—No. 1 extra is quoted at $1.18@1.20, and No. 2 at 85@87.

MILLFEED—Is scarce and in good demand, though unchanged. Bran 90c@$1; seconds, $1.15@1.20, and middlings $1.65@1.85. Oil Meal $40@42 per ton.

ONIONS—The demand is improving and the market firmer, with sales at $1@1.25 per bushel, as to quality.

POTATOES—There is an improved demand for sweets, and we can report regular sales at $4@4½ per bbl, the outside figure for prime Jerseys.

PROVISIONS—Plain Shoulders 14¾; Ribbed Sides 17¾, Clear Sides 18¾, Breakfast Bacon 20, Sugar Cured Hams 25, Leaf Lard, 16¾ in tierces and 17¾ in buckets. Mess pork $29, and demand light. Dried beef 24.

RAGS—Quoted at 2¾@3.

TALLOW—Rendered 8¾@9.

SALT—Is quoted at $1.60@1.65 by the car load, with the usual advance for small lots in store.

POULTRY—Chickens are being sold by the coop at 50@60c per pair and ducks at 70@75.

SEEDS—Timothy seed is less active as farmers do not seem to want much at the prices; small sales at $5.50@5.75. Clover seed is being inquired about considerably though nobody seems to want to buy and there is no established price—it is generally conceded that the yield will be unusually large this year. Flax seed is still quoted at $2.15@2.20.

PITTSBURGH CATTLE MARKET.

EAST LIBERTY STOCK YARDS, THURSDAY, Sept. 15, 1870.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

The most noticeable feature of the cattle trade this week was a very material falling off in the receipts, but the demand, also, appeared to have fallen off somewhat, and consequently the supply, notwithstanding it was considerably below that of last week, was, nevertheless, fully up to the demand. As has been the case all summer, and we might say for the year past, good cattle were scarce, the largest proportion of the offerings consisting of the common and medium grades, and while all kinds sold quicker than last week, the better grades were sought after and sold with less difficulty, and at relatively better prices. There seemed to be fewer buyers in attendance then last week, and it was fortunate for those who had cattle on sale this week that the run was light for there is no doubt if it had been otherwise that the market would have been a very hard one: this is evident from the fact that notwithstanding the diminished receipts, prices, as compared with last week were no higher, and about the only difference was that sales were made quicker.

As will be seen by reference to the report of sales, there was one bunch sold at 8cts, and another 8¼, and the rest were all sold below 8cts, the great majority being within the rang of 4¾@6cts—some inferior sold to 3¾@3¾, and 4cts. Fair to prime stock steers may quoted at 4¾@5¾, and prime to extra shipping steers at 7¾@8¾.

HOGS.

The hog market is decidedly bearish and shippers feel and talk bearish, though with what effect remains to be seen; their predictions in regard to the future may be realized, but this, to say the least is doubtful. There is no disputing the fact, however, that the indications at this particular time point to lower prices; the war is generally considered as going over, the corn crop is expected to be unusually large, all of which tend to make cheaper hogs, and if prices are not considerably lower this winter than last there will be a good many operators greatly deceived. During the early part of the week Philadelphia hogs sold at [illegible], but to-day 10¾ was considered an outside price New York hogs quoted at 9¾@9¾ and Baltimore at 9¾@9¾.

SHEEP.

The sheep market has been sluggish this week notwithstanding the arrivals were not large, scarcely up to those of last week, while in regard to prices there is but little change. We quote good 80 to 85 lb averages at 4¾@4¾; 75 to 75 lb averages at 4¾@4¾, and common at 3¾@4. Prime 100 lb sheep, of which there was none on sale, would no doubt have brought 6 perhaps 6¾.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, WEDNESDAY, September 15, 1870.

The oil market was again very quiet to-day and devoid of anything particularly new or really important. The feeling at the opening was rather stronger and there was some little business in crude at a slight advance, but there was a reaction in the after part of the day and the market closed but very little different from that of Wednesday evening. The dealings at New York were large, which indicate that considerable refined is wanted for export, and this accounts for the comparatively light stocks at the sea-board in the face of the continued large shipments from here and Cleveland.

CRUDE.

Sale early in the day of 500 spot at 10—later in the day this figure could not be realized; we can also report 1,000 seller October at 9¾; and 2,000 seller all year at 9¾. At close [illegible] bid for seller all year; buyer all year nominal at 9¾@10.

RIVER NEWS.

The river has become so low that it is scarcely worth while to report the stage of water. Weather pleasant and very favorable for out door business.

No arrivals or departures, and business at the main landing is about played out.

First-class ship carpenter receive $3 50 per day at Memphis.

—When the Addie Johnston was backing out from the Winona (Minn.) wharf, recently, some roughs on shore threw stones at her, one of which caused a passenger to lose the use of one eye. Several of the passengers were otherwise injured. The Winona Herald advises the steamboats to carry cannons, and "treat the miscreants to a gentle shower of grape and canister." People outside of Winona might ask, "Why do not the authorities of the town arrest them and have them hanged or imprisoned for piracy?"

—We recently mentioned an accident to the Wade Hampton. It is thus described: She did not make her trip to Fort Adams, having broken the cross head of the starboard engine, below Port Hudson, and reached Bayou Sara on one wheel. By this accident the Hampton will be delayed for repars about ten days, the damage being greater than at first expected. After the cross-head broke the cylinder-head was blown out, and, in being forced out, cracked the cylinder in several places, so as to render it unfit for further use.

—We clip the following from the Cincinnati Commercial: Capt Ed. Evans and Wm. Harbison, clerk of the Kate Putnam Capt. S. Shuman and J. Vandergrift, the clerk of the Lorena, and Capt. J. Shouse, a Pittsburgh pilot, arrived yesterday from Pittsburgh, and will leave for Louisville this evening. The Lorena and Kate Putnam have both been laid up at Portland for sometime, but will load soon for N. O. Capt. Evans has purchased new carpets for the Kate Putnam.

—Dr. Noyes, President of the Mexican Gulf & Mississippi Canal Company, says the canal which is being excavated a few miles below New Orleans, to unite the Mississippi river and Lake Borgne, will be open to navigation on the 1st of November. The canal will then be 50 feet wide and 12 feet deep, but the enlargement contemplated, and the construction of locks, will not be finished before spring.

We understand that Capt. Frank Marratte succeeds Capt. A. C. M'Callum in command of the Exchange, and will commence business with her in a few days. Capt. McCallum assumes charge of the office.

—There was a meeting at St. Louis Monday to consider the question of free wharfage. The Memphis Avalanche don't want free wharfage, but advocates a reduction of the tax.

—Experienced steamboatmen are of the opinion that we will have some very low water the remainder of the season.

—The bar of the Wauanita was to be offered for sale upon the arrival of that steamer at Memphis.

—The wharfage collection at Memphis during August amounted to $2,961.

We are still offering a limited quantity for sale at 90 and Accrued Interest. Interest payable May and November. J. EDGAR THOMPSON, CHARLES L. FROST, Trustees. The greater part of the road is already completed, and the earnings from the finished portion are already more than sufficient to pay operating expenses and interest on the bonds. The balance of the work is progressing rapidly, in time for the movement of the coming grain crop, which, it is estimated, will double the present income of the road. The established character of this line, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings, warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors as, in every respect, an undoubted security. These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the Company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, besides paying about 9 per cent. currency interest in the meanwhile. Assaulted a Lady.—William Sonder was charged before Justice Heisel, of East Birmingham, yesterday, with assault and battery on oath of John Rehn. A warrant was issued for Sonder.

Margaret Craig, at the same time and place, made information charging her husband, Charles Craig, with assault and battery, alleging that he struck her in the face with his fist without cause or provocation. Warrants were issued for the arrest of these alleged wife beaters.

Explosion.—An explosion occurred at a house on Robinson street, near Federal, Allegheny, about six o'clock yesterday morning. It appears that some repairs were being made about the house, and one gas pipe in the parlor had been broken, from which the gas escaped, and the room being closed up, it was not noticed by any one. In the morning a young man went into the parlor, and as it was dark, he lighted a match, which ignited the gas, and the explosion followed. The young man was severely burned, the hall door was blasted open and the plastering was torn from the ceiling.

Zell's Popular Encyclopedia continues to come to us regularly. It has progressed now nearly to the end of the letter N, and is generally very accurate and satisfactory in its definitions and explanations. [illegible] times when so many places of which few of us know much are daily attaining great interest in all eyes, it is very desirable to have some book of reference which will tell us what we want to learn about them, as well as about the men who are prominent in the war, and it would be hard if not impossible to find any other book which could fill this want at so small a cost as this popular work, which already in its unfinished condition contains interesting articles upon Napoleon, the Bonapartes, Metz, Nancy, McMahon, Bazaine, etc., etc.

From the card of Messrs. Bruggeman & O'Brien, wholesale produce and commission merchants, at No. 200 Liberty street, our readers will perceive that they have now in store a heavy stock of green apples, sweet potatoes, May and June butter, lard, honey, cheese, green peas, [illegible], flour, [illegible] &c., and that their stock of every kind of produce is being daily replenished by consignments from various parts of the country. Messrs. Bruggeman & O'Brien are indefatigable, energetic and quite successful in driving their active trade. Those in the country who have produce for sale could select no more efficient agent, and those in the city wishing to purchase will find them attentive to all comers, and with a large and varied stock for sale.

Persons Acquainted with the general run of sewing machines will appreciate the following points of the Florence sewing machine for which Messrs. Heckert and McKain No. 6, Sixth street are the agents for its sale in this city.

It has the best quilling guide.
The needle is easily adjusted.
It runs light and quiet.
It can be easily managed by a child.
It will sew everything needed in a family, from the heaviest to the lightest fabric.
Its motions are all positive; there are no springs to get out of order, and its simplicity enables the most inexperienced to operate it.

Eloped.

Miss Mary Yonkell, a young lady of about seventeen years of age, daughter of Mr. Samuel Yonkell, of Johnstown, Pa., left home without the consent of her parents on Wednesday morning. A telegram was received at the Mayor's Office yesterday announcing the fact and requesting that she be arrested. She was supposed to have come to this city in the train that left Johnstown at eleven o'clock yesterday morning. The dispatch was received too late to watch the arrival of that train, and the girl was not arrested. It was thought she was coming here to meet a young man to whom she was engaged.

This afternoon will present a lively appearance, as exhibitions of speed on the part of a number of fine fast horses will be made for the several purses offered for the best goers. The course will be wet down and rolled previous to the trial, so as to be put in good condition.

THE MENAGERIE

Pulled up stakes and left for Sewickleyville last night. It was a very good show, only it took up too much ground in the centre of the race course. Much more room for vehicles will be afforded to-day in the absence of the great tent.

THE EXHIBITORS

Express much satisfaction with the Fair, as they have been afforded a grand opportunity for the exposition of their wares, inventions, manufactures and works of art before tens of thousands of people. They unanimously agree that their enterprise in being represented on the field has been amply rewarded. We continue to-day our notes on the things to be seen on the grounds:

HOUSEHOLD NECESSITIES

In every well ordered domestic establishment are Duryea's celebrated Corn Starch for the table and the Satin Gloss Starch for laundry purposes. These two articles are beyond question entitled to the highest measure of praise. In every instance where either of them has been exhibited the article has received the medal, and in many cases an additional diploma for excellence. These medals are on exhibition at the stand in commendation of the Starch, and can be examined by all who wish to know how a good article has been recognized. The fact that Messrs. Duryea have such confidence in their wares to distribute gratuitously sample packages, is an additional evidence of incontestible superiority. Over 15,000 of these packages have been given away and the practice is still kept up. Each package secures a patron, for once used always used, has been the result with either kinds of the Starch. The stand at the Fair yesterday was surrounded by ladies, each of whom received a sample. We would advise all who have not tried these articles to do so at once and be convinced that they have no rivals.

RIESICK & BROTHER.

Business men are interested in the manufacture of safes. They want to know where to get the best article of this kind and for the least money. We advise them then not to overlook the display made by Messrs. Riesick & Co., the well known machinists. They have an apartment on exhibition at the fair that has been much admired. It comprises safes, express boxes, bank locks, and other articles appertaining to that line, all fashioned in the strongest and most improved manner, and warranted to defy all the dangers of the devouring elements and the expertness of the sharpest professional thieves. Many of our business men seem to labor under the idea that only from the Eastern cities can there be obtained first articles of this class, but in this they make a very decided mistake. The safes of Rieseck & Bro.'s manufacture are not excelled by those that any competing firm may turn out. Particular attention is directed to their parlor safes, which are admirably adapted for the storing of silver ware and other articles of value. The firm supply them in every variety. Messrs. Rieseck & Bro also build engines and general machinery. All orders left at the corner of Pike and Seventeenth streets will receive prompt attention. They guarantee satisfaction in every case, and will be found moderate in terms and superior in their workmanship. Persons in need of any thing in their line will find Messrs. Rieseck & Bro. just the firm.

PITTSBURGH ENTERPRISE

Is exhibited at the stand of Messrs. John B. Herron & Co., in the shape of a beautiful ornamental parlor and sitting room stove, designated as the "Argand." This is really one of the most beautiful specimens of mechanical skill and invention in the stove line to be found on the Ground. It is a Pittsburgh invention too, which adds to its interest. The "Argand" is constructed upon scientific principles—not blundering and guessing—and hence has proved an immense success. There may be and is as much philosophy in a stove as in a telescope, and both, if properly constructed, are subject to certain laws in their manufacture. Messrs. Herron & Co., by knowledge and skill, have succeeded in producing the "Argand" and brought it to as near perfection as can possibly be obtained. A stove that will burn hard or soft coal, generate an intense and equable heat, leaves no waste in fuel, consuming all, and use very little at that in comparison, never get clogged up and is easily kept clean and in order, is certainly all that is wanted in that line. Such is the "Argand," which is in addition sold at a price within the reach of all, making it one of the cheapest and best parlor stoves manufactured. Visitors should call at 294 Liberty street and see the "Argand" in operation, and make a selection from the stock on hand there.

HOUSEKEEPERS

Will be much interested in the collection of Messrs. B. S. Koll & Co. At this stand there is one special attraction for them—the Enterprise Range for cooking. Any person who has tried ranges will appreciate the great importance of having a good one in the house. A good cooking range is an inestimable blessing to the superintendent of the cooking; a bad one is about the worst disorganizer which can be put into a house. There are many ranges now before the public, but one which in practical use stands the test and exactly fills the bill is, pre-eminently, the "Enterprise." The inventors claim that this goes ahead of anything in the "Range" line in the country, and certainly wherever it has been used the high commendations it has received go far towards substantiating the claim. Among the many advantages claimed for the Enterprise over other ranges, we may mention those of economy, convenience and durability, which its proprietor proposes to demonstrate to the satisfaction of any who are skeptical. It has elevated double ovens, which, for baking and roasting, cannot be surpassed. The elevations of these ovens render them more convenient certainly than most of the ranges of a different pattern.

Messrs. Koll & Co. also have the celebrated "Metropolis" furnace on exhibition. Of this we have heretofore spoken, and now only add that too much cannot be said in commendation of it. It has greater heating surface than any other and requires attention only once in twenty-four hours—two points which are sufficient to indicate its value for large buildings. The firm have on hand at No 147 Wood street a large stock of the "Enterprise" and "Metropolis," to which the attention of all interested is invited.

A HOME SUBJECT

is that of grates. In the construction of a house, if the comfort of the inmates is of any moment, the most particular attention is, or should be, paid to this matter of grates. Inventors have turned their attention in this direction for years, and the result has been an innumerable number of patent grates, some of which are really great patents, and others not so much so. Among the most famous, and one which stands confessedly in the front rank is the "Wellman Patent Reflecting Grate," which comes from the extensive foundry of Messrs. L. H. Smith & Co. This firm has sent to the Fair several samples of the "Wellman," which have been subjects of considerable attention by builders and others interested in the perfection of grates. Many ladies have also stopped at this stand attracted by the elegant finish and neat design of the "Wellman," which they with one accord pronounce "a love of a grate." The Wellman, however, is not alone a model of beauty, it was constructed particularly for utility, and the design of the inventor has been accomplished. It is only necessary to examine the Wellman to become aware of its excellencies. Economy, beauty, cleanliness and comfort have been combined in it. Parties who desire to examine its workings further should call at the West Point Foundry, corner Duquesne Way and Water street, where they can get all the information desired.

ENTERPRISE REWARDED.

The judges were at work yesterday, and in their rounds visited the stand occupied by Mr. W. W. Wallace. This gentleman had fitted up his portion with rare elegance and taste, using for the purpose a lot of his marbleized marble mantles, than which in all the collections of the Fair there is nothing more rich and handsome. This was the verdict of the many hundreds of visitors who were attracted to the spot daily since the opening of the Fair. The judges ratified the general verdict by awarding the medal to Mr. Wallace for having the best display of goods in his line. That the award was just is evident from the previous praise of the people. These marbleized mantles as manufactured by Mr. Wallace are really rich and rarely beautiful. For fine delicate workmanship, exquisite finish and design, and general appearance the mantles are not excelled by anything on the ground. They are more beautiful than the marble itself, being in the way they are manufactured susceptible of a higher polish, and they are also more desirable not being so liable to "chipping" as the solid marble. In time they are bound to supercede the old style of solid marble mantles. Even now, though the manufacture has only been going on for a few years, they are to be found in our best houses, and are rapidly gaining the highest favor with builders. Mr. Wallace has a large assortment at his warehouse No. 319 Liberty street, and persons who wish to ornament and finish their parlors or bed rooms or sitting rooms with such mantles should call and see the various styles and patterns. No house is complete without them, and they are so comparatively cheap that all may get them.

THE FARMER'S DELIGHT

Is seen in the Agricultural Implement Department, where the Godfrey Patent Revolving Molding Plow is on exhibition. This implement is one which already has won a high name among farmers. At several plowing matches it has been tried under the most trying circumstances, and yet has never failed to come up to the expectations. The farmers who have witnessed it in actual operation are unanimous in its commendation—and they ought to know. This plow is built upon an entirely new principle, yet it is as simple and as strong as it is new and efficient. The highest authority of science and the infallible test of experience alike pronounce it a great improvement upon all plows hitherto made. It possesses among others the following important advantages:

1st. It has very superior pulverizing power. Stubble land plowed with it requires no harrowing.

2d. It does not, in any circumstances, compress, smooth and glaze the surface of the land slice, an advantage very conspicuous in wet or clayey soils. Plowing may therefore be done earlier in the season or in a moister condition of the soil than with other plows.

3d. By reason of its adjustable mold-board, the Godfrey plow is adaptable to either turf or stubble. In combination with the jointer, the sod may be so thoroughly inverted and buried as to leave no visible trace of its existence.

4th—The revolving mold board makes clogging almost impossible. For this and other reasons it turns under stubble and coarse manure more effectually, and distributes them more evenly than the common plow. The Revolving Mold Board is also adaptable to harrows and cultivators.

5th—The diminished friction has a tendency to lighten the draft. Carefully conducted experiments will, it is believed, show an important gain in this respect.

6th—By removing the mold-board, it is converted into an excellent subsoil plow. These and other advantages, which are readily appreciated on examination and trial, are the secret of the great favor with which this plow has already been received. The evidences of its growing popularity are abundant and multiplying every day.

Farmers who visit the Fair have been delighted with it so far as they saw its workings. The "Godfrey" is manufactured at the National Plow Works. Orders for it may be addressed to J. S. Godfrey, Manager, or to S. M. Loveridge, corner of Fourth avenue and Wood street, Pittsburgh. We would advise farmers to examine further into the merits of this implement. We feel satisfied there is no rival to it in the market.

DIPLOMA AWARDED.

Heretofore we have called attention to the display of Lubricating, Head Light and other oils, made by the enterprising firm of Mr. W. W. McClelland & Co., whose office is located at room No. 5, GAZETTE Building. A signal evidence that these oils are of a superior character is the fact that they were used on the machinery in the Fair, to the exclusion of all others. This was further evidenced yesterday by the action of the judges, who unanimously decided to award the diploma to the firm for their display, and the superior character of the article on exhibition. This is but a just tribute to the energy of the firm, and an endorsement of the sentiments of all who have used the oils. Messrs. McClelland & Co. are prepared to supply all who need them with the best of Lubricating oil for machinery of all kinds, and in such quantities as may be desired. For family use their Head light will be found much more safe, and in every way better than the common carbon oil. It burns freely, makes a clear, brilliant light, never chars the wick, emits no smell, and is less liable to explosion. All that they sell whether for machinery or family use is put up in tin cans, recently patented, and which will be transported by railroads, steamboats &c., at a cheaper rate than oil put up in any other way. Our readers cannot do better than by patronizing this reliable and energetic firm.

REED & JOHNSTON.

We yesterday spoke of soap exhibited at the Fair by this well-known firm. Among their varieties is a soap they have commenced to manufacture which is surely a blessing to housekeepers. It will wash in cold water, hard or soft, without the use of rubbing boards or machines, and do the work perfectly. It is called "Warfield's Cold Water Self-Washing Soap." There is nothing in the soap that can injure the most delicate fabrics, and yet its cleansing property is so great that it easily washes out grease, paint, or any kind of dirt or stains (except acids) in a few minutes, in cold water, leaving the fabric white and clean. Very little rubbing is required, as the soap by its own action dissolves the grease and liberates the dirt, thus quickly accomplishing what is usually done by long boiling and hard labor. Housekeepers should give it a fair trial and save the labor and annoyance that is usually attached to washing.

THE TRUNK KING.

Liebler is at the Fair. Liebler the enterprising, go-ahead, wide awake, champion trunk maker of Western Pennsylvania. The proprietor of the two establishments, the Premium Trunk factory, 52 Duquesne Way, and the wholesale and retail warerooms, No. 104 Wood street, Leibler's display is in "Domestic Hall" and no visitor to the Fair can miss it. Prompted by his unquenchable spirit of enterprise, and his determination to overwhelm all competition, Liebler puts in an appearance at the Fair with the finest assortment of trunks, valises, satchels and traveling bags ever before exhibited to the public. The trunks in Liebler's display were taken from his establishment at random, without reference to the Fair, and are therefore fair specimens of the work turned out at the Premium Trunk Factory. Liebler is at the head of the trunk trade not only in this city, but of Western Pennsylvania—and while occupying that enviable reputation at home, his name is also well known abroad. There is nothing from the smallest valise to the largest trunk that he cannot supply on the shortest notice and in a manner to give perfect satisfaction. Every article sent out from his ware rooms is guaranteed to give the fullest satisfaction to the purchaser. It is to this very fact that much of Liebler's remarkable success is owing. The people patronize him because they have a constant certainty of getting the best value for their money that the market affords. Liebler has enterprise and has the fullest faith in the efficacy of informing the public of the character of his stock through the columns of the newspapers. His best advertisements, however, are the elegant, handsome and thoroughly finished trunks which he daily sends out from his establishment. Furnishing every variety, from those small but neat and stylish receptacles which bachelors are wont to patronize, to the large affairs which families use to store away their wardrobes on the occasion of their annual excursions to summer resorts—we have never had a manufactory here to surpass that of Liebler's. Mr. Liebler has made special arrangements for the week of the Inter-State Fair, and at his establishment a large and handsome stock is now on hand. Selections can be made from it with the greatest ease and most favorable results. Visitors to the Fair should not omit calling at Liebler's and supplying themselves from the superior assortment of goods which are at present displayed there, the store being conveniently located on Wood street, a couple of doors below Fifth avenue. His exhibition at the Park will be readily distinguished by its extent and excellence, and may be taken as a fair specimen of the goods which the great Trunk King is accustomed to manufacture, yet the prices at this establishment are extremely low, and the general inducements offered to purchasers are unexcelled. Let the reader, by all means, drop in and judge for himself.

J. SCHOONMAKER & SON.

The extensive and widely known manufacturers of white lead and cedar paints, whose office and factory are at 450 Rebecca street, Allegheny, and branch office at No. 341 Liberty street, Pittsburgh, make an exceedingly fine display of their articles of trade in Domestic Hall. The paints are neatly canned and in small kegs ready for mixing. The superiority of the white lead made at the large factory of this firm has long been recognized and demands come for it from all parts of the country. Great care is taken that not the smallest package leaves the factory to find its way into the market unless it fully sustains the high reputation gained for the trade mark through uniform superiority. The colors, embracing all the hues and shades of the rainbow, are likewise very fine, indeed, the finest we have ever examined. They are elaborately prepared and must attract the admiration of painters and the trade generally. Orders addressed to the Pittsburgh White Lead and Color Works will receive prompt attention, and shipments will be made in secure packages to all parts of the country. The proprietors, Messrs. J. Schoonmaker & Son, are among our most enterprising and reliable representative manufacturers, and we cheerfully commend them to the patronage of the public. Let no visitor to the Fair pass through Domestic Hall without seeing the paints on exhibition.

A NOVEL CONTEST

has been arranged by Mr. Jesse H. Lippincott, the grocer who has made such a fine display of his specialties at the Fair. He has on exhibition Edward's standard fruits, Enoch Morgan and Son's Sapolio, the Halford table sauce, and the Banner Baking Powder. The latter article is a new element in cooking but has already gained great favor among cooks, over all rivals. Mr. Lippincott is convinced that his Powder is the best in the market and spares no pains to have it introduced. He now proposes to give two prizes of $25 each to the cook baking the best cakes with the Banner Baking Powder. The idea seems to take well with the ladies, and yesterday thirty-three contestants entered the list, while the excitement which runs high will doubtless bring in a great many more to-day. Competent judges are to decide the case, and the cake is to be of such a character as to fully test the merits of the Powder. In the meantime any of our lady readers who desire an excellent and reliable Baking Powder—who of them does not—should call at Lippincott's, corner of Smithfield and Second avenue and get a supply.

SPLENDID MACHINERY.

The display of machinery made by Messrs. Faber and Van Doren will be found especially attractive to all who can appreciate the beauties of mechanism. This firm has long been recognized among the leading engine builders of the kind in western Pennsylvania. An idea of the esteem in which their work is held may be gathered from the fact that they have been entrusted with the responsible post of supplying all the motive power for the machinery on the grounds. At the entrance to the Fair grounds on Penn street, they have erected a beautiful model pumping engine which is kept constantly at work to supply the water used at the Fair. Other engines of different sizes and patterns are on exhibition in their stand in "Mechanic's Hall." The assortment comprises several finely finished steam engines, a number of steam pumps, and a choice lot of mechanical tools, all of which bear evidence of skill and the best of workmanship in their manufacture. Messrs. Faber and Van Doren's stand should be visited by all mechanics and others who understand what is perfection in machinery. Those who wish to continue the examination further should also call at the Machine shops, No. 367 Liberty street, where we will guarantee they will see an assortment of machinery which is hard to beat in the Union. This firm employs only the best workmen, and as a consequence turns out nothing but the best work. They extend a cordial invitation to all to visit the shops and inspect their work.

J. H. M'ILROY,

Whose tin and sheet iron warerooms are at No. 22 Smithfield street, has on exhibition the celebrated patented wrought iron air-tight gas consuming furnace, with patented dust screen, grate bar rests and wrought iron radiator, which is manufactured by J. Reynolds & Son, of Philadelphia. This furnace is very generally regarded with high favor by all who have used it, and it takes place second to none other in the market. It is especially adapted for warming dwellings, stores, school-houses, churches, public buildings, conservatories, &c., burning bituminous and anthracite coal, coke, wood or any other fuel. They come very reasonable in price, and should be examined by all persons getting ready for the winter, or those who are building new houses and have not supplied themselves with heaters.

STAR CHAMBER DEXTER WASHING MACHINE.

Among the many ingenious and useful labor saving machines on exhibition at the Fair none is more ingenious, simple and exactly suited to its purposes than the "Star Chamber Dexter Washing Machine," exhibited by Geo. W. Hubley, and for sale at his house furnishing warehouse, No. 68 Federal street, Allegheny. These machines are star shaped, very light, being made of galvanized iron, without friction, can be worked by a child, wash in ten minutes anything, from the finest linen or lace to the coarsest blanket, doing the work perfectly in every case. Wherever these machines have been introduced and tested, complete satisfaction has been given. We know that washing machines have been multiplied greatly and that so many of them are worse than useless, that the public are wearied of them, but after all a realy good washing machine is much needed and is now supplied in the "Star Chamber Dexter" for sale at Mr. Hubley's.

THE FLORENCE SEWING MACHINE.

The visitors at the Fair during the past several days have been much pleased with the exhibition of the workings of the popular and celebrated Florence Sewing Machine, for which Messrs. Heckert & McCain, No. 6 Sixth street, are the agents. This first-class instrument does its work in admirable style and with an almost fabulous rapidity. It is quite simple in its construction and not liable to get out of order, and yet introduces many new principles which have never before been applied to sewing machines. Thoroughly complete, finished in excellent style, durable in all its parts, and easy to operate, the Florence Sewing Machine addresses itself in terms of strong commendation to the discriminating public. It is sold at corresponding prices with other machines, recognized as first-class, and because more complete, it is therefore cheaper. It is sold on very liberal terms, ten dollars a month in payments being required from those in moderate circumstances who would avail themselves of the opportunity offered for procuring a means whereby they may earn a substance and livilihood. We urgently request all our readers to examine into the merits of the Florence Machine before purchasing any other, as we feel assured that in so doing they will consult their own interests. Visitors to the Fair will not fail to see in operation this splendid machine, which attracts universal attention, working easily, smoothly and noiselessly, and accomplishing all manner of work. At the salesrooms, on Sixth street, a large number of Florence Machines in different styles of furniture may be seen.

A MOWER FOR A HUNDRED DOLLARS.

We take real pleasure in announcing to the public that the above minimum has at last been reached by the Sprague Manufacturing Company of Providence, R. I. Their mower has been on exhibition at the Inter-State Fair and was carefully examined by the best farmers and mechanics of the county. It has neatly encased gearing, is compactly and strongly built, noiseless in movement, has no side draft, and is easy on both driver and team. The guards, facilities for throwing in and out of gear, folding of the cutter bar for transportation, are all on improved principles. The "Sprague" has been successfully used for three years and its merits and abilities are attested by thousands of farmers who have used it. We congratulate our farmers that they now have within their reach a machine of tried merit and at a price lower than any in the market. Sidney A. Stephens & Co., Market street, Philadelphia, are the agents for the State.

THE "MODEL"

Is the name of a newly patented cooking stove, which is on exhibition in Hardware Hall, among the stock of Messrs. Mitchell, Stevenson & Co. It is a piece of mechanism which attracts the eye among a hundred other manufactures of a similar character, and then engages the attention. The "Model" does not belie its name in practice, for it has been found a model wherever used. So say the enthusiastic housekeepers who are fortunate in the possession of it as a cooking apparatus. The chief excellencies of the "Model" are that it is provided with an extension top and a boiler for heating water; it may be used with any kind of a reservoir or without any at all; it has also Mitchell's patent attachment, which completes the outfit of a first class stove.

In every respect the "Model" is really a model stove, and visitors to the Fair who have not had a sufficient opportunity to examine it, should avail themselves of the invitation of Messrs. Mitchell, Stevenson & Co. and call at 194 Liberty street, where they can see an endless assortment of some of the best stoves ever manufactured.

CARSON & CO'S. ALES IN FAVOR.

People who patronize the Fair are apt to experience considerable need of refreshment, for, no matter how inviting a feast may be spread before the occular organs, it will never appease the physical appetite. Yesterday especially when the grounds were so dusty and the heat rather oppressive, visitors to Iron City Park required some pleasant fluid to allay their thirst. As a general thing they took Carson & Co's ales, which were supplied at almost every stand, and which, besides being agreeable to the palate, gave strength and cheerfulness to the consumers. Everybody seemed to be in a happy mood—a circumstance for which Carson & Co's. ales were purely responsible. They are the best brewed. Every first-class saloon can supply them.

AN OMISSION.

In describing yesterday the fine assortment of agricultural implements on exhibition at the Fair by our friend Mr. W. W. Knox, the prince among dealers in these articles, we omitted to mention "The Etna Self Rake," one of the most important of the collection. The "Etna" possesses two signal advantages over all others. In it a "Dropping" and "Raking" machine are combined. It is so constructed that by the movement of any easy working lever—without stopping the team, without reversing the motion of the gearing, and without destroying the simplicity of the machine, or adding the least complication to its parts—the speed of the knife or sickle can be instantly changed from fast to slow, or from slow to fast, or by the same lever thrown entirely out of gear, placing at the will of the operator such a speed as may be best adapted to the work in hand, and enabling him to cut all kinds of grass and grain with the least possible wear and tear to the machine, while at the same time the draft will be reduced to the lowest attainable point. Both as a Dropper and a Hand Raker the Etna is the first and only machine ever made with an adjustable geared reel, and thousands of these machines are now in successful operation in this country, demonstrating to the satisfaction of purchasers the many advantages they possess over the old manner of running a reel. The Etna is made in three sizes with the "Dropper." It is also made without the dropper attached. Farmers should not miss the opportunity while visiting the fair to examine into the merits of his harvesting machine. They can do so at the fair or may obtain fuller particulars by calling at Mr. Knox's agricultural establishment, No. 137 Liberty street.

FINE UPHOLSTERING GOODS

Are on exhibition from the large establishment of Messrs. Edmundson & Son, No. 55 Market street. The stock at their stand is not large, but what it lacks in quantity is made up in quality. In all the taste and skill of the firm and its workmen are evidenced. Their stand, with its elegant window drapery, richly trimmed in blue and gold and suspended from a neat gilt cornice, together with tassels and smaller trimmings, fine mattresses, several varieties, a Turkish spring bed and other contributions, exhibits at once the variety of the large stock in their warehouse and the exquisite taste which has governed its selection. A noticeable feature in their display is one of Jones' Patent Spring Bed Bottoms, which is manufactured exclusively by this firm, and is one of the best in the market. The stock, however, at this stand will give but a faint idea of what the firm has in store at No. 55 Market street. Housekeepers who are renovating or refurnishing their houses should call at Edmundson's and look at their assortment. We feel satisfied that any of our readers who desire anything in the upholstery line can do no better than at this house.

THE "WORLD"

Messrs. E. Ball & Co. have brought from their mammoth manufactory at Canton, Ohio, a few samples of their renowned mower and reaper. They have secured a fine location in the agricultural implement department, and are daily surrounded by farmers and others interested in agricultural pursuits, who seem never tired of examining and praising this exceedingly simple yet effective piece of farm machinery.

A great deal has been written and talked of in regard to the "World" mower and reaper, but the very best evidence of its superiority is the fact that one of the largest manufacturing establishments is kept running to supply the enormous demand for this great machine. Thousands of farmers throughout the land praise and look upon it as the chief aid which they have in securing their abundant harvests, and thousands who are just beginning to see its advantages are sending in their orders for the "World's Reaper and Mower."

The beauty and great peculiarity of this "Mower and Reaper" is that it has been planned and constructed upon the principle that the more simple the machinery the more perfect the machine. Hence the inventor aimed at simplicity first in evolving the ideas of his mind. The result has been the production of the "World," which is really well named, as it is yet destined to become the world's reaper. It is the result of practical experience in farming, a thorough appreciation of the wants of the farmer, a clear idea of the kind of a machine needed, and an inventive genius, united to perseverence and scientific knowledge, to plan and carry out the idea. Without doubt the "World" has no rival, and is the perfection of mechanical skill in that direction. We have often heretofore described at length the "World," and need only here refer to its main parts which may be sumed up as follows: The "protection" to the gearing, which is secured by a hinged cover, which, with the solid iron case or frame, effectually excludes water, sand, grass, and indeed every kind of dirt which could in any way hinder the movements or cause wear to the vitals of the machine. The durability is beyond the reach of a question. Its freedom from liability to derangement is something which no farmer, with a full force of hands, employed at high wages, can fail to appreciate. The "cut gear" is used in this machine, the utility of which time and experience have proven. We would call attention to the improved "cutter bar," which will be on their machines made hereafter. Any farmer, even if he has never seen the machine in operation, by this brief recapitulation can easily perceive that the "World" is all he wants. This was the verdict of all who examined it since the Fair commenced, and is the verdict of all who use it—a much better test.

Messrs. Ball & Co. have several machines at the Fair, none of which were prepared for special exhibition. What is there is just a sample of what is seen at the manufactory at Canton. No farmer can be without a "World." it will prove itself a fortune to him in one harvest. Farmers should make a note of this and get one by all means.

A STONE COFFIN.

It has been a problem of many years, indeed since the great art of embalming has passed into those chronicled among the lost, how best to preserve for time the precious remains of near and dear friends whose souls pass into eternity and yet whose bodies we cling to and would preserve as long as possible from decay and ashes. Messrs. Harrison & Brother, whose well-appointed coffin depot is located at the corner of Railroad and Thirty-third street, after long experience and much experimenting, have procured a burial case which may be regarded as the next best thing to the lost art of embalming. It is a neat, closely-cut, ornamental stone sarcophagus or coffin, so well made as to prove thoroughly close and air-tight. It has been successfully tried and corpses have remained in it almost as natural as when in life for an indefinite period of time. The coffin is cut out of solid stone and then the lid is cemented with the most adhesive and most indestructible cement, excluding air and water perhaps forever. For the transportation of remains over great distances, for temporary burial, awaiting the approach of delayed funerals, for depositing the corpse in a vault, or in any other circumstance where the preservation of the remains is desired, this coffin is just what is wanted. It is exhibited on the fair grounds and meets with the unhesitating endorsement of all scientific persons. In its invention a greatly needed want has been supplied, and we will marvel not should it entirely supercede iron and wooden burial cases when its merits are understood well enough to be appreciated. The price at which these coffins of stone are sold is very reasonable—almost as cheap as an ordinary wooden case and we hope visitors to the fair will not overlook the specimen on exhibition.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—This evening Mr. Collins, who for the past week has been so highly entertaining the patrons of the Opera House, will take a benefit, when he will appear in his favorite piece "The Irish Ambassador."

ACADEMY.—The Fiske Burlesque Troupe are creating quite a sensation at the Academy of Music, and will doubtless have a successful run. There are many attractions at the Academy.

VARIETIES.—Mr. Aimes was fortunate in effecting an engagement with the "Four Blondes." They are the strongest card of the season. Ye lovers of fun go to the Varieties.

Penmanship.

We yesterday spoke of the penmanship on exhibition at the Fair from Duff's well known Commercial College. The plain and ornamental penmanship by Mr. Wm. H. Duff, the Professor of penmanship in the College, is almost perfect. Many wonder that it could be brought so near engraving. The College is one of the most reliable, and we believe the oldest College in the West. Students can enter at any time.

The Florence Sewing Machine is the only machine that makes four kinds of stitch, three of which are made on no other machine, and are stronger and more elastic than any other.

THE COURTS.

Quarter Sessions—Judge Stowe.

THURSDAY, September 15.—In the case of the Commonwealth vs. John Noil, for surety of the peace, on oath of Annie School, defendant was discharged and the prosecutrix was ordered to pay the costs.

Findley Smith, indicted for assault and battery, Charles Kapp prosecutor. Verdict of guilty.

Mary Montague, indicted for assault and battery on oath of Annie School, was placed on trial and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, and directed the prosecutrix, Annie School, to pay the costs.

To Patrons of the Fair—A Jewelry House Worthy of a Purchasing Visit.

Our enterprising and popular jeweler, Mr. W. G. Dunseath, No. 56 Fifth avenue offers to his patrons a magnificent new stock of choice and fashionable jewelry which he has just imported from the eastern cities. The stock comprises all that is new and novel and is generally conceded to be one of the finest as well as one of the largest ever opened in this city. It comprises articles from the most humble character to the most elaborate and costly. Inasmuch as he is agent for the celebrated United States watch manufactory at Marion, New Jersey, his facilities for supplying his patrons with magnificent specimens of the famous time pieces made at that great establishment are very superior. Recently Mr. Dunseath visited the great establishment and was kindly made the recipient of numerous favors at the hands of its courteous Superintendent Mr. Lowe who showed him through the entire factory. He also exhibited to him a very fine three-quarter plate nickel stem-winding movement which he has been a year and a half in preparing. It is an improvement over any thing that has ever been introduced to any public. It is a perfect triumph of mechanical ingenuity, and reflects credit upon American enterprise. Mr. Dunseath was so well pleased with it, that, although he had already given very large orders for their other movements, he immediately gave a large additional order for this movement, expressly for his own trade. Thus, through the enterprise of Mr. Dunseath Pittsburgh will be one of the first cities to have this excellent movement introduced among its citizens. The stock of fine jewelry, watches, clocks, &c., which Mr. Dunseath purchased is the largest and finest he has yet brought to this market. They are arriving daily and will be opened for the inspection of the public immediately. We would advise all to call and examine them, and especially the new movement watch spoken of above. They will be fully repaid for a visit to this pleasant store, No. 56 Fifth avenue.

The Governor at the National Pipe Works.

Two of the largest manufacturing cities in the world are Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, located as they are at the opposite ends of our great Commonwealth, and exerting as they do a mighty influence throughout the whole State it is not singular that the chief executive officer, chosen by the people, should feel a lively interest in their industries, general and individual. We were not at all surprised therefore when we learned that Governor Geary, on Wednesday, despite his necessary fatigue after the performance of his by no means light duties of the day before, expressed a desire to be shown some of our leading factories. It was not the first time that our Soldier Governor has personally investigated some of the great industrial establishments of our city. He, for instance, during the war, took a lively interest in the doings of the various works engaged in the manufacture of cannon ball and shell, but this time he was taken to a foundry where the objects manufactured are altogether of a peaceful nature. Accompanied by some friends he was driven to the Pipe Works of Messrs. William Smith & Co. Of course of the existence of an establishment of such reputation the Governor was thoroughly aware, but he was astonished and delighted with the magnitude of the works and with the precision and thoroughness of the discipline and attention to the work in hand, which he found. Although these are the largest pipe works in America and well deserve the name they bear of National Foundry, everything, every detail is as thoroughly watched as it could be in the smallest works where but few men are employed. The Governor was shown the whole process of cast iron pipe making, from the melting and casting to the finishing and shipping, and was so interested in what he saw that the whole morning slipped by before he was aware of it, but he had the satisfaction of knowing that he had seen one of the greatest manufacturing wonders for which our city is renowned.

Murderous Assault.

An affair occurred at one of the dining saloons on the Fair grounds between John White and J. E. Johnson, colored men, employed as waiters, in which White made a murderous assault upon Johnson with a butcher's cleaver, inflicting a wound on his neck, under the left ear, about three inches in length and over an inch deep. So far as we could ascertain there was but slight, if any provocation for the attack, and certainly not sufficient to justify such a murderous assault as was made. Johnson immediately repaired to the office of Alderman Nichols, where White had been taken by officer Richard Moon, and made information charging his assailant with felonious assault and battery, and the accused was committed to the lockup for a hearing. Dr. Robinson was called and dressed Johnson's wound, after which he was removed to his residence.

Here are a few of the points of the great Florence Sewing Machine now on exhibition at the Inter-State Fair, and for which Messrs. Heckert & McCain are the agents, office and salesroom No. 6 Sixth street:

It fastens the ends of a seam better and quicker than a seamstress can.
It uses less thread than any other machine.
The Double Thread Chain Stitch uses 5½ yards of thread to 1 yard of seam.
The Single Thread Chain Stitch uses 3½ yards of thread to 1 yard of seam.
The Double Thread Lock (as made by the Florence) uses 2¼ yards of thread to 1 yard of seam.
It has the best hemmer, makes any width, and is easily managed.
It hems, fells, cords, braids, tucks, quilts, binds, gathers, etc., without basting.
It makes a gather and sews it to a band at one operation perfectly.
It is the only Machine having a self-adjusting tension—a great improvement over all others, rendering it easy to do good work.
It is the only Machine that can sew in more than one direction, having a reversible feed.
Unequalled for fastening ends of seams, quilting, etc.
